ARC-EN-CIEL ACROSS

AIR SERVICE TO BRAZIL

FROM SENEGAL IN 14 HOURS

St. Louis, May 28.
The flight across the South Atlantic of the French air "ace", M. Jean Marmoz, flying the crack plane, Arc-en-Ciel, was successfully completed to-day.

The Arc-en-Ciel took off from Senegal at 3 a.m. G.M.T., and arrived at Port Natal, Brazil, at 7 p.m. G.M.T., having covered the distance of approximately 1,800 miles in 14 hours.

This is the first attempt by the French, with official backing, to make a commercial air link between France and South America.

The conditions insisted upon by the French Government are that the Arc-en-Ciel must make three double journeys before the service will be recognised by Air France.

The Arc-en-Ciel is one of the biggest and most modern of French commercial aeroplanes, being one of the fastest constructed in France. She was to-day endeavouring to beat the Graf Zeppelin into Brazil.—Reuter.

KOWLOON LADY IN HOSPITAL

AN OVERDOSE OF ADALIN

SIMILAR CASE IN HONGKONG

Mrs. Buick, a guest at the Airline Hotel, Kowloon, was removed to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday. She was found to have been somewhat seriously affected by an overdose of Adalin.

At the Hospital it was stated this morning that Mrs. Buick has recovered and it is expected that she will be able to leave in a day or two.

Miss Alice Chan, living in Hongkong, was also a victim from an overdose of the sleeping draught. She is receiving treatment at the Government Civil Hospital.

It is understood that Miss Chan was admitted to hospital at 8.30 p.m. yesterday in an unconscious condition from Gloucester Building, where she had been in the company of young men and women friends.

JAPANESE TROOP TRAIN WRECKED

SCORES KILLED AND WOUNDED

AMBUSHED BY BANDITS

Harbin, May 29.

Scores of Japanese soldiers were killed and wounded when they fell into an ambush on the railway yesterday, as the result of a daring coup by a strong force of anti-Manchukuo bandits.

The bandits pulled up the track on the Muling branch line near Pamyatun, and a Japanese troop train, speeding towards Muling was derailed and wrecked.

Before the troops aboard her had had an opportunity to collect themselves, the bandits, lying in ambush, were pouring a fusillade of bullets into the soldier passengers as they staggered out of the wreck.

The full extent of the casualties is not yet known, but about thirty-five Japanese were killed outright and the number of wounded is greatly in excess.—Reuter.

PARLIAMENT TO MEET TO-DAY

PROSPECTS OF BUSY SESSION

London, May 28.

Parliament will reassemble to-morrow.

Among the most important measures for discussion by the Commons before the session concludes, at the end of July or the beginning of August, are the Betting and Lotteries Bill, the Petroleum Protection Bill and the Tithe Bill, which have been initiated in the House of Lords, and the Road Traffic Bill, which is designed to lessen the risk of road accidents and includes a proposal to limit speed in built-up areas to thirty miles hourly.

The remaining stages of the Finance Bill and several other measures also await consideration.—British Wireless.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EXPEDITION

INTO INTERIOR OF NEWFOUNDLAND

London, May 28.
The third expedition into little known parts of the world organised by the Public Schools Exploring Society, of which the Prince of Wales is Patron, will sail for Newfoundland under the leadership of Surgeon Commander Murray Levick on August 3. For over four weeks they will journey in uncharted waters.

One party will make a detailed theodolite survey of about 25 by 30 miles of country, while another will march straight through the interior of the island, making a route survey by primitive compass and sextant. Scientific observations will include meteorology, geology and notes on flora and fauna.

Some 50 boys representing most of the leading public schools will take part in the expedition.—British Wireless.

GENEVA DECISION

GENERAL DEBATE ON ARMAMENTS

CONFERENCE MUST GO ON

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 29, 8.55 a.m.)

Geneva, May 28.

The Bureau of the Disarmament Conference met to-day under the chairmanship of Mr. Arthur Henderson, to discuss the procedure to be followed at to-morrow's meeting of the General Commission.

The business of the Bureau was completed within half an hour.

It was decided that the General Commission should meet to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon to decide the fate of the Disarmament Conference.

The meeting will be thrown open to a general debate on the problems to be met.

"MUST GO ON."
Mr. Henderson, at to-day's meeting of the Bureau, read a short statement summarising the recent exchange of Notes between the Powers principally concerned, after which M. Barthou, the French Foreign Minister, supported the chairman's proposals to open a general debate.

"The conference must continue," declared M. Barthou, in the course of his speech.—United Press.

GRAVE SITUATION.
London, May 28.

The future of the Disarmament Conference will be determined at the meeting of the General Commission of the Conference which opens at Geneva to-morrow. At to-day's meeting of the Bureau, Mr. Arthur Henderson expressed the hope that the Bureau would unanimously recommend the General Commission that the gravity of the situation commands more than ever an unflinching determination to pursue efforts towards securing a convention in accordance with the mandate given to the Conference.

Monsieur Barthou, the only other speaker, urged that however difficult the developments had been, the Conference should not consider its work finished. The speeches at to-morrow's meeting will be broadcast.—British Wireless.

AN ACCOUNTANT "WANTED"

BIG SUM ALLEGED EMBEZZLED

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Pun Kin-yue, employed as an accountant at 21 Bonham Street, on a charge of embezzling nearly $20,000.
Pun was missing from his post after the week-end, and an investigation of the books is said to have revealed the amount named as a deficit on March 6.
Tall and of medium height, speaking Japanese fluently, Pun is usually dressed in a silk gown, and a description containing these particulars has been circulated.

NOTE PRESENTED TO BRITAIN

London, May 28.
With due formality, the United States has presented the British Government with an "Account Rendered" Note, dealing with the payment of war debts.

The Note requests the payment on June 15, of $239,000,000 on account of war debts instalments falling due and overdue, comprised as follows:

June 15, 1933, instalment balance	$66,000,000
December 15, 1933, instalment balance	$88,000,000
June 15, 1934, instalment	$75,390,000
Half-yearly instalment in repayment of amounts suspended by the Hoover moratorium, 1931/32	$9,721,000
Total	$239,111,000

GERMAN TRADE THREAT

NEW INDUSTRIAL ECONOMY

SYNTHETIC RAW MATERIALS

Berlin, May 29.

The threat that Germany may be compelled to make a complete reversal of her industrial economy was made last night by Dr. Schmitt, the Minister of National Economy.

Addressing a meeting at Frankfurt-on-Main, Dr. Schmitt complained that the nations of the world were excluding German exports, with the consequent result that Germany could buy less and less of raw materials.

This, he said, was the reason why the debts service could not be continued.

If this situation was not soon changed, Germany would be forced to rely upon her chemists and engineers to produce substantial raw materials from her own resources.

This would not be a temporary palliative but a permanent transformation. If Germany were compelled to the step, it would react with tremendous force on world markets.—Reuter.

JAPAN'S NAVAL TALK POLICY

CABINET TO MEET TO-MORROW

POLITICAL ISSUES TABOO

Tokyo, May 29.

Japan is giving very serious consideration to the policy to be pursued in the preliminary naval discussions, to which Britain has extended an invitation.

Draft instructions to Mr. Matsudaira, the Japanese Ambassador in London, who will be entrusted with the task, will be submitted to the Cabinet by Mr. Hirota, the Foreign Minister, to-morrow, for their approval.

It is understood that the Japanese Government accepts with pleasure the prospect of bilateral talks, and is not opposed to general meetings of all the parties to the naval treaty whenever it is considered desirable.

RESTRICTED ISSUE.

It is also believed that the Japanese Government will stress the Japanese belief that there is no need for the naval conference to go into any further discussion of the Nine-Power Treaty, Far Eastern problems or political questions, which have already been thoroughly discussed by the League.

The Japanese Government therefore understands that the next naval conference will only discuss defences and naval strength. It has been indicated in Washington that in Anglo-American circles, Pacific political issues are inextricably interwoven with the naval problem.—Reuter.

The journey was broken at Rongfrew Aerodrome for inspection of the new premises of the Scottish Flying Club.—British Wireless.

TRADE RECOVERY SIGNS

FURTHER REDUCTION IN UNEMPLOYMENT

HALF A MILLION IN A YEAR

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 29, 8.55 a.m.)

London, May 28.

Most of Britain's principal industries shared in the improvement reflected in the past month's fall in unemployment by fifty-eight thousand.

The total of unemployed is now just over two millions, which is nearly half a million less than at this time last year.—Reuter Special.

A further decline in the number of persons unemployed and an increase in the number in employment are disclosed in the latest Ministry of Labour return.

It states that at May 14, there were approximately 10,187,000 insured persons aged 16-64 in employment in Great Britain. This was 47,000 more than at the 23rd April.

The improvement during the month affected most of the principal industries except the coal mining industry, where the decline was due mainly to temporary stoppages at a number of collieries in Yorkshire and the wool textile industry.

The numbers of unemployed persons on the registers of the Employment Exchange in Britain on May 14, were 1,668,677 wholly unemployed, 341,028 temporarily stopped and 90,676 normally in casual employment, making a total of 2,090,381. This was 57,000 less than in April.—Continued on Page 7.

STOP PRESS

San Francisco, May 28.

Wild rioting occurred on the waterfront to-day after the announcement that the compromise plan for the settlement of the longshoremen's strike had been rejected by the men.

Fifteen hundred strikers clashed with five hundred police, who used their truncheons and tear gas bombs and fired shot-guns into the air.

Eight of the most seriously injured were sent to hospital, but there were scores of minor casualties. A number of policemen were badly beaten up.—Reuter.

Married Flirts

McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement school. On the first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GRAY, an old friend of Tom's, telephone. Later Vera calls and she and Gypsy discuss each other.

Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their European honeymoon. Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in LILA HOTALING.

CHAPTER XI

The streets were full of scurrying crowds. Already, although it was early afternoon, the lamps were lighted, moons glowing in a blue dusk. All along the avenue the lamps made a chain and people, hurrying past through the snow, scuffed on without noticing. The shop windows were gay with tinsel and ribboned boxes and glittering things to eat and to wear. There were silks and white woolly sweaters and necklaces and bracelets and boxes of candied fruit and here a whole windowful of peanut brittle, magnificently turned out of a gilded barrel. For a dollar you could buy a frilled collar or a book or a string of imitation pearls or an artificial orchid.

The trouble was, Tom Weaver wanted none of these. He wandered along, with his coat collar up, staring and puzzling about what to get Gypsy. She should have (he thought) that delicious silvery squirrel coat in the corner shop. She should have a glittering string of real jewels to adorn her pretty throat. And he groaned to himself for a stupid fool because he could not buy her these things. For there was the rent to be thought of, and the monthly bills, and the first of January staring you in the face.

Christmas! Oh, it would be a glorious thing if a man could go out with his hand in his pocket and buy what he saw—this and this and this—without ever asking the cost or counting it afterward! Only the trouble was, some of us have to consider the landlord and the grocer and the tailor. We'd love to make a grand gesture, Tom told himself, only we're worms and wage slaves and we haven't brains enough to corral enough money to do it.

He was discontented. Christmas ought to be a time to make folks happy, but it didn't affect Tom that way. When he had been younger and the sum of happiness had been bound up in a pair of skates or a train of cars or boots with a Boy Scout knife thrown in, then life had been simpler. Now he was grown, he had a young and lovely wife, and he was too poor to get her the sort of gift her youth and beauty deserved.

So he trudged along, staring moodily into first this window and then that one. Christmas was only four days away and still he had nothing for Gypsy. Ten dollars—fifteen—twenty—that was the very most he could spend. He felt cheap and mean. He considered perfume, but the bottle he wanted was too small. He went into shop after shop, getting, in his male fashion, more and more depressed and bewildered. Women—it was funny!—seemed to love the business of shopping. They elbowed and pushed and reached around other people's shoulders, snatching "specials" from the bargain counters.

At last he bought her a bottle of scent—mimosa, it was—and a book she had been wanting and a pair of gloves, long, sleek, white ones. Christmas morning he would add roses and her favourite candy. But he was still dissatisfied. His mood of discouragement hung over him. It was a half day at the office. He had nothing further to do and Gypsy herself was shopping. But he was not conscious of the Christmas spirit. He was disgusted with himself for not being a captain of finance—like Marko Broughton.

Meantime, Gypsy went briskly

about her purchasing. She had things for Mums and Daddy and the twins. She had a resplendent rose crepe kimono for Clytie. But Tom? He was last on her list, because closest and best beloved. He needed—oh, everything! Socks and ties and shirts and gloves. But what precise things, thought Gypsy, humorously, to put on the altar of the loved one.

What she wanted, really, was to buy him one of those wafer-thin platinum watches. He carried his father's heavy old one and it stuck when you tried to open it. She wanted to buy him an opulent blue satin dressing gown, so that he might look like a second-hand hero. She wanted to buy him a top hat, because he would look so well in one, and Derek Bliss owned one. But how?

After a while she got dreadfully tired. During the early part of the afternoon the crowds had given her a sense of mild exhilaration. But now that feeling had dwindled and she was conscious mainly of an ache in her shoulder and of immense fatigue. You were pulled this way and that. You never knew which way you were going. The crowd sucked you in and drew you along like the tide.

Somehow she found herself in a little corner sweet-shop. It was more expensive than those she usually patronized but she was actually too tired to go any farther at the moment. In a corner, behind a screen of greenery, an orchestra played softly. Waitresses in smart yellow uniforms fitted to and fro with laden trays. A tall, exquisitely dressed young woman beckoned Gypsy to a table. She sat down and put her few pennies on the other chair. Without even glancing around her, she drew forth her compact and proceeded to powder her nose. This done, she felt her self-respect restored. She did not look so dragged as she had feared. The wet wind had added roses, to her cheeks.

She looked down at the menu in its silver holder. Tea and toast would restore her feeling of gaiety. She sat back, giving her order, and glanced about her.

Quite without warning, her eyes met those of the man at the next table. He had risen . . . he was bowing . . . now he was coming toward her.

"Marko," Gypsy murmured. And indeed he was the last person on earth you would have expected to find here!

Marko's manner with her was perfect. No hint, now, of the discarded gallant. No, he was almost fatherly. How was she—and that handsome husband of hers? She was looking well . . . and so on and so on . . .

Gypsy found herself babbling to him of all sorts of things. The waitress fluttered over, removing his order to her table, and they settled cozily down to a talk. He was suave, he was polished, thought Gypsy, and yet you felt he really cared what happened to you—to all his friends. She told him about her afternoon. How Tom would have hated to hear her! But indeed there was nothing disloyal in her conversation. It was just an innocent outpouring.

Presently Marko knew everything. About Tom's cut, and the watch she wanted to get him, but couldn't, and the apartment and all the rest.

"My dear child . . . His eyes were almost suffused. That was one embarrassing thing about Marko, he wept easily. "My dear child, you really must let me help you."

All at once she realized what she was doing. She caught herself up. "But really, Marko, I love it. It's fun. You mustn't mind what I say." She was bitterly ashamed of herself for having said anything. But that was the worst of being a babbling. Her mother had always warned her against it.

"No, no." He was patting her hand now. He was all gentleness and sympathetic interest. "It's a shame a lovely child like you hasn't everything she wants. You must let me do something, really."

There was more of this. Gypsy protested, she would gladly have bitten her tongue out to have recalled some of her confidences. At length she managed to convince Marko that she meant what she said. Of course he was used to women trying to get things from him! Naturally that was what he had thought she meant. Her cheeks burned at the thought.

She finished her tea and Marko paid for it. His fur-collared coat, his expensive soft hat made him look a little like a corpulent opera singer. Gypsy was conscious of heads turning to watch them as they left the shop. She was just about to give him her hand in parting when a great car slid up from no where and a uniformed man held open the door.

"Nonsense, my dear, I'm dropping you wherever you want to go," Marko handed her in, and a fur rug was wrapped around her wet gashes. The door shut noiselessly and the motor slid forward. Marko held a lighter to his cigarette.

"Look here," he said, exhaling slowly. "I've an idea for you to earn some extra money. You have Saturdays, haven't you? Ah, then, you remember how you admired my library. It's sadly in need of cataloguing. Something I've never got around to. You could do it for me."

Gypsy's eyes were round with pleasure and excitement. This was something else again. Taking help from Marko was, of course, quite out of the question. He must understand, once and for all, that she wasn't in the class with the pretty ladies who "worked him" for the sweets of life. But if she could do some real work for him. (Continued on Page 11.)

THE TASK BEFORE GENEVA

To-day there opens in Geneva what can certainly be described as the most fateful session of the Disarmament Conference ever held. The result of its deliberations will have a profound effect on the peace of the world. Unhappily, the Conference meets under the shadow cast by the widespread fear that no major agreement on the limitation of arms is likely. Whether contemplation of the grave consequences of possible failure will have a sobering effect on the various delegates, causing them at the eleventh hour to explore every possible avenue in order to avert such a catastrophe, will soon be seen. Meanwhile, it is to be hoped that, if nothing else is achieved, some definite step will be taken along the lines of the Russian plan for collaboration in the definition of an aggressor, with the sanctions against the guilty party. The Russian attitude on this point has always been marked by a keen perception of the danger arising from the fact that there is, at present, no universally acknowledged definition of aggression. This is well demonstrated by the reservations attached to the Kellogg Pact. In effect, these reservations amount to a claim by certain States for freedom of action, in certain cases and in certain parts of the world, Pact or no Pact. The mischief is, in this connection, that given circumstances may be used as justification for aggression. A prime necessity, therefore, is the defining of war and aggression by the drawing of definite distinctions between aggression and defence. Russia has put forward very specific submissions on these points and has, in fact, already embodied them in certain non-aggression pacts. In the course of an all-embracing instrument, an aggressor is defined by the Russian plan as the first country in an international conflict which declares war, invades the territory of another without a declaration of war, bombards another's territory, attacks the naval or air forces of another State, or establishes a naval blockade of the coast or ports of another country. What is more, it is laid down that no considerations whatever of a political or economic nature, including the desire to exploit natural riches or to obtain advantages or privileges on the territory of another State, or no references to capital investments or other special interests in a given State, shall be accepted as justification of aggression as defined above. Here, then, is a clear-cut definition which, if adopted and sin-

NOTES OF THE DAY

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY

Signs of increasing American interest in the Disarmament Conference are unmistakable. Mr. Norman Davis is expected to make an important statement which, if it does not commit the United States further, will at least bring her back to the point from which she withdrew twelve months ago. In addition, close Anglo-American co-operation in the handling of the conversations preliminary to next year's naval conference is confidently predicted. There is still sound hope for the immediate future if the reorientation of America's foreign policy is an earnest of real appreciation of the gravity of events in the international field and of President Roosevelt's readiness to contribute liberally towards a solution.

ANGLO-AMERICAN UNITY

And the prospects are good. For the effect of Japan's recent hegemony pronouncement has been to bring Great Britain and the United States considerably closer in their Far Eastern policies. Anglo-American disunity in the Far East was a principal factor in frustrating effective international action to prevent the dismemberment of Manchuria, and Anglo-American disunity in the Far East has continued to complicate and embarrass relations between the two halves of the English-speaking world. Unqualified, unquestioned and unchallenged Japanese hegemony over China is as grave a threat to the United States as it is to the United Kingdom. Neither country will willingly accept the supervision of its political and commercial relations with China by the Japanese Foreign Office. Neither country wishes to supervise Japan's relations with China. Both seek to maintain the present balance in the Far East through a collective peace supervised by the collective application of the Nine Power Pacific Treaty guaranteeing, as it does, the political, territorial and administrative sovereignty of China.

CRITICAL MOMENT

Unity in the Far East between Great Britain and the United States seems essential to the attainment of such a peace, and if a new Anglo-American unity is in the making, as it appears, Japan will have helped to bring these two countries together at a critical and profitable moment for themselves and for the entire world. In points of execution, the foreign policy of the present Administration differs appreciably from its predecessor. Unlike Mr. Stimson, Mr. Cordell Hull has not allowed the latest chapter in Japan's Asiatic conquest, Washington, to become the latest chapter in Japan's Asiatic conquest. London, await developments. The President supports the non-recognition doctrine, enunciated by President Hoover and Mr. Stimson, but is not prepared to press it beyond what the American Government can enforce, without the backing of the rest of the world.

ROOSEVELT LIMITATIONS

The tendency of the Roosevelt Government to keep its international idealism well within its capacity to execute them and within what it believes is the willingness of the American people to support them also, can hardly fail to effect the search to find disarmament in Europe. The Administration is less expansive about consultative commitments than its predecessor, and the United States has, till now, refrained from playing any active role in a world-wide system for the collective enforcement of peace. In the meantime, difficult and explosive problems remain unhealed in Europe. They are the seeds of certain conflict if left to the cultivation of selfishness and stupidity. In their political aspects it is believed that Mr. Norman Davis will explain a new form of neutrality, to be achieved through an embargo which would abandon trade with all belligerents. It is the conviction of many in Washington that such a policy, particularly if supported by parallel action by Great Britain, would discourage war by withdrawing essential financial and commercial support, or circumscribe its ring of destruction. Until collective action to restrain an aggressor becomes a possibility, Washington offers this alternative. American reaction to the Litvinoff scheme should be interesting.

serely respected, would be of the utmost value in the preservation of peace. Coupled with an undertaking of joint action against an aggressor, as defined, it should immensely reduce the danger of war and soon put a stop to aggressive action once begun.

FRANCE'S WAITING GAME IN CHINA

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

PEIPING, April 10.—France, with the world's greatest colonial empire next to Great Britain's, has her eyes on a slice of China as big as the 13 original American colonies.

Imperturbably, the French are watching every move made on the Asiatic chessboard by Japan, the United States, Britain, Russia, and even China, in Central Asia and elsewhere, so that no possible turn of the delicately-poised balance will catch her napping.

If China blows up, or is torn asunder by the ever-increasing pressure from without, France will be on hand for her share of the spoils.

Her sphere of influence or zone of special interest is the territory of Yunnan and Kwangsi on French Indo-China's northern frontier, the Luichow peninsula and the island of Hainan at the peninsula's point.

IN LINE FOR GREAT POWER.

Given the island and the peninsula, the Gulf of Tonkin, which she already dominates, would be as French as Long Island Sound is American.

And France strategically would occupy a position in the Far East second to none save Japan.

Yunnan is the second largest of the 18 provinces of China proper. In area it is almost 150,000 square miles. Kwangsi is nearly as large. With Hainan and the neighbouring peninsula—on which France controls the leased territory Kwangchow-wan—the total area amounts to approximately 350,000 square miles.

FRANCE BIDES HER TIME.

France is not at all excited over Japan's encroachments in the north. She appears but mildly interested in what the British are doing in the "God Land" of Tibet, or the manoeuvres of the Chinese powers in the hell-hole of Chinese Turkestan.

If there is to be a new scramble for "concessions" at the expense of China, France has her bit already staked out.

There is a tacit understanding between the French rooster and the British lion in southern and Western China. Burma, bordering Yunnan on the west, was once part of China. Now it is British, just as Indo-China is French.

But some time ago, when the lion proposed to extend his railroad—which runs across Burma, via Mandalay, to the Yunnan border—on into China to connect with the head of navigation on the Yangtze river, the rooster crowed a warning. The project was dropped.

JEALOUSLY BARS PARTITION.

This does not mean, of course, that China is already parcelled out. Far from it. International rivalry over great power would get what piece of China, and why, still remains China's chief salvation.

Except Japan, no other nation, for the moment, is willing to risk war. Mostly they are just watching and waiting.

France controls Yunnan by controlling the gateway. The one practicable portal is via Halphong, French Indo-China port, on the Gulf of Tonkin, thence by railroad to Yunnan-fu, the provincial capital.

The alternative routes are by camel caravan over mountain trails. Instead of three days, they require from four to eight weeks.

Here is at least one reason why France objected to a British railway into Yunnan from Mandalay and the Indian ocean. Economically and militarily, she controls the province as matters stand.

No arms or munitions can get in save by France's leave, and in all matters of ordinary trade she has the inside track on the rest of the world.

U. S. PLANE SALE HITS SNAG.

Some time ago the war lord of Yunnan wanted to buy some airplanes. An enterprising American sold him four. When these reached Halphong, the French refused to let them in.

They classed them as war supplies, which, rightly enough, are barred.

After considerable difficulty and loss of time, during which Washington and Paris exchanged a series of cables, the American finally got his planes through.

And the war lord was very pleased with them. But he had learned his lesson. His next order for planes was placed in France.

Foreigners complain that their shipments take weeks or months to reach their destination in Yunnan, and they suffer considerable loss from breakage.

On the other hand, they observe, French shipments somehow enjoy much better luck, arriving in a few days in good condition.

FREIGHT RATES JUGGLED.

Freight rates, too, they say, seem subject to sudden change on the French railway. True or not, it is remarked that when some particularly close bidding is going on, the rates seem to drop when French materials are due to go up into Yunnan, then bound back again in time to catch competitors.

One always hears such stories when conditions are what they are at Halphong. But the fact remains that France gets more business than all the other nations combined, whereas, in the rest of China, she stands close to the bottom of the list.

Yunnan is very mountainous and extremely poor. But she raises the best opium in China, which is always in great demand. The drug is by far her principal export. On the other hand, she imports rice. Her best land is turned over to the poppy.

RING CLOSING ON CHINA.

Kwangsi, the province east of Yunnan, has not yet felt France's influence to any great extent. France has no railway there. She does have a line from Hanoi, however, as far as the Kwangsi border, and a concession for a railroad connecting the head of the Gulf of Tonkin with Yunnan-fu.

So, beginning with Korea and Manchuria, and continuing in a stupendous semi-circle through Mongolia, Sinkiang, Tibet, Yunnan, and Kwangsi, the great powers are pressing in on China, closer and closer.

Paralyzed by her own impotence, and without much hope of help from tottering peace machinery, her horizon is dark indeed.

The Very Idea!

OURSELVES & OTHERS

By George

IN response to the numerous telephone enquiries as to our absence from the dancing competition held last week, we have to thank our friends for their interest and to remind them that at this stage in the month we cannot afford to enter any competition where the result is arrived at by public vote.

Had we been able to bring our shroff friends and other parasites along, we might have been induced to shake a hoof with the best of them, despite the unattractiveness of the prizes.

What we should have liked to have seen as prizes were a free chit account for a month at the Hongkong Hotel for the men and free Gloucester for the ladies. As a second prize gratis training for the profession of glass blowing or instruction in the rudiments of dancing.

SLEEP, UNTRIOUBLED BREAST.

Dear Juryman (Alexandra-Building)—I can understand you falling to sleep during the hearing of a long case but there are several expedients you should try before you let snoring interfere with your snooze. You might arrange with the juryman next to you to take turns in sleeping so that you can each hear part of the case and fix things up afterwards. You might also wait for the Assistant Attorney General's summing up, when you may snore to your heart's content. It is a pity that the benches are so uncomfortable but I am afraid it is the old story of the public's comfort considered last.

FAT HENRIETTA.

Dear Henrietta, (Kowloon Tong).—I certainly feel that you should take some exercise if you really have put on seven pounds in seven days. As you say stamp collecting reduces the figure but seems to touch your pocket money more than anything else. I should advise you to take up billiards or snooker while you are still able to bend over a table. I can understand your not being able to touch your toes but have you tried with a walking stick or something like that? Anyway you can always exercise by touching the ceiling which is just as good and easier in your case.

LESSON IN JOURNALISM.

The layman usually believes that a sub-editor is "next to the editor."

Misguided pupils who wish to become sub-editors should realise that this is so far from the truth (like all popular beliefs) that editors are often unaware of the names belonging to the "spate" or "clutch" of almost hairless men who sit closely packed round the sub's table "spiking" or throwing away, "scoops."

It has been said that sub-editors are the lowest form of life with the exception of the one-eyed newt, though this is possibly an exaggeration. They sleep in the daytime, herd together for protection and live mainly on cold tea and stale sandwiches thrown to them by office boys at feeding time.

Their duties are to write headlines and put sparkle and "human touches" into the news. This is achieved by using phrases like "Dame Fashion," "Miss 1934," "Eve," "The Modern Girl," "The Kiddies," "Tiny Tots," "Clerk of the Weather," "Happy Holiday Crowds," "Suprise Move," "Bombshell," and "Women up in Arms."

They are mammals and their chief enemies are reporters.

The reporter though to the outside appearance a bright and normal lad is often imbued with the same germ from which the sub-editor springs, oozes, or crawls so that much which could be said of him is reserved for further cogitation.

On the whole reporters are the best of the bunch, being nice, clean, upstanding lads with a fine distaste for drink, swearing, and work.

Most of them are following father's footsteps though their flat feet are derived from walking on taipans' offices, treading on taipans' toes accidentally, and losing patches due to frustrated ambition.

DISASTER FUND

TYPICAL CASES RELIEVED

APPEAL CLOSING ON THURSDAY.

After to-day, only two days remain in which to contribute to the Telegraph Fund for the relief of sufferers in the gasworks disaster.

Particulars of further cases dealt with at the St. John Ambulance Brigade distributing centre show that the money subscribed is being most usefully employed.

One particularly pathetic case was that of two widows, aged 58 and 60 respectively, who were only able to rent a bed-space which they shared in a Clarence Terrace cubicle. They lost all their clothing, while one was badly burnt about the ears and legs.

Another case relieved was that of a woman over 60 years of age, who, although obviously sick, earned a living as best she could by hawking peanuts. She lost all her possessions in the fire.

Relief was also granted to three sisters, one of whom was employed as an amah and the other two in embroidery work. They lost all their possessions, as also did a street coolie and his wife, with a family of five children.

These typical instances show the necessity of help being afforded to poor people who were rendered homeless and who lost practically all their belongings in the disaster.

NEPALESE GIFTS FOR KING

SPECIAL MISSION IN LONDON

London, May 28. A formal welcome was extended to the mission from the Kingdom of Nepal which arrived in London this afternoon for the purpose of presenting a new Nepalese honour to the King and establishing a permanent Nepalese Legation in London.

The mission is headed by a special envoy, the eldest son of the Prime Minister of Nepal.

For a fortnight, members of the mission will be the guests of His Majesty's Government, and when the official visit ends the special envoy will present letters of credence on his appointment as first Nepalese Minister to London. The envoy brings some rare gifts from Nepal for presentation to the King on the occasion of his birthday.—British Wireless.

SCIENTIFIC STUDY OF MAN

CONGRESS TO MEET IN LONDON

London, May 28. Scientists from all parts of the world visit London at the end of July for the International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences.

This will be the first meeting of the Congress, which was formed last year to promote study in all departments of research which contribute to scientific study of man in their application to races, peoples and modes of life. Subsequent sessions of the Congress are to be held at intervals of four years.

The Duke of York will welcome members of the Congress to London at the inaugural session on July 30.—British Wireless.

WATER LEVELS.

FOR WEST, NORTH AND EAST RIVERS

The River Conservancy Commission for Kwangtung Province notifies that the height of water in English feet in the West, North and East Rivers is as follows:

	May 27.	May 28.
West River at Shihlung	8.8	8.0
North River at Tsin-yuen	7.7	7.4
North River at Samshui	4.2	3.8
East River at Sheklung	1.8	1.3

Two cases each of small-pox, diphtheria and typhoid, and one case of cholera, were reported to the local health authorities during the week-end.

814, less than the number on the registers at April 23, 1934, and 492,498 less than the year before. The latest total comprised 1,706,797 men, 52,500 boys, 289,654 women and 41,360 girls.—British Wireless.

WORLD TRADE STATISTICS

League Of Nations' Figures

Geneva, May 29. Statistics available to the League of Nations all point to a steady rise in world trade, marking the progressive movement towards recovery.

Further improvement in the world's commercial statistics published by the Financial Section of the League include an increase of twenty per cent. in coal production during January, as compared with the corresponding month of last year.

The increased production of other commodities as compared with January last year are in some cases even more remarkable, as the following percentages of increase for January, 1934, will show:

Petrol, 12 per cent.
Pig Iron, 51 per cent.
Steel, 54 per cent.
Zinc, 37 per cent.

Industrial activity during the first three months of 1934, compared with 1933, increased forty per cent. In Canada, thirty in the United States, twenty-five in Germany and Poland, eighteen in Sweden, eleven in Japan, six in Norway and three in France.

Unemployment is decreasing in all the principal industrial countries with the exception of France.—Reuter.

CHINESE STUDENT KILLED

NANKING PROTESTS TO TOKYO

Nanking, May 28. The Foreign Office has instructed the Chinese Legation in Tokyo to protest against the assassination of a Chinese student in Tokyo, named Yen Mo-hua, by an unknown Japanese gunman and to demand the punishment of the assassin and compensation to the victim's relatives.—Central News.

CHINESE POLICE RELEASED

ALLEGATIONS OF MALTREATMENT

Tientsin, May 29. Following a Chinese protest, the three Chinese police arrested by Japanese troops in the Lunghien district, have been set free. The incident is regarded as closed. It is alleged that the policemen were injured as the result of maltreatment by the Japanese.—Central News.

PANCHEN LAMA

ALLEGIANCE TO NANKING

Shanghai, May 28. Speaking at a dinner party tonight, the Panchen Lama declared that he was preparing to go to Nanking to consult with the Central Government on the future administration of Tibet. As soon as he had obtained instructions he would start on his journey to Lhasa.—Central News.

FISHING JUNKS COLLIDE

THREE MEN BELIEVED DROWNED

Three of the crew of a fishing junk, which left Hongkong last week, are believed to have been drowned in a collision with another junk on Friday night off Waglan.

The only survivor was the junk-master, and he states that the mishap occurred while they were fishing off Waglan.

AN INTERESTING SURVEY OF THEIR PROSPECTS

innings and thirty one runs. At first slight, compared with the Cambridge record of two wins, two losses, (one by the Australians by an innings) and a draw, this is not very good, but I will discuss this point more fully in my next article, on Cambridge. There is, in point of fact, little to choose between the merit of the performances, and, if anything, Oxford may be thought by some to have a slight advantage.

The first match was a draw, but as the visiting side, Gloucester, were eighty-two runs behind with only one wicket to fall, it was a most interesting, especially as only two Blue victories, playing, Chalk and Walker, F. C. de Sarum made 176, and N. S. Mitchell-Innes 107, while J. H. Dyson took five for 54.

The next match, against Worcester, was drawn. Oxford made 377 and 24 for two, while the County had 299 and 246 for eight. D. F. Walker got 188 for Oxford, and the fast-medium bowler K. L. T. Jackson took five wickets for 61.

The Varsity next held York-shire to a fairly creditable draw, as in reply to 351 and 151 for two Oxford made 266 and 112 for two wickets. In the first innings Chalk made 135. They then met Lancashire, and drew with them, as after the County had made 410, Oxford replied with 232 and 206 for four.

In their match with the Australians they failed, as, against a total of 317, they could only muster 70 and 216. The one bright feature here was another century by de Sarum, who made 128 in the second innings.

THE VACANCIES.

It is too early to go into the whole list of candidates in great detail. I shall hope to write more concerning them in a week or two, when I have been able to see the scores of the earlier matches in detail. One can usually narrow things down to a good deal when the sides go on tour after completing their fixtures at the Parks or "Pinner", as the case may be.

At present I have only seen the score of the first day of the Gloucester match. F. C. de Sarum (Ceylon and Keble) went up in October, 1931, and was given a place in the 1932 Freshers' match, but only made six. So far as I can discover he was never given another chance, probably because he is a very good team player. I think he got his Blue that. Anyway, he was not in the 1933 Seniors' match, but, after term, began to play for Hertfordshire in the Minor Counties Championship, and got 479 runs in five matches, with an average of 68.42, including two centuries. He also bowls a little.

N. S. Mitchell-Innes is a fresher from Sedburgh, where he captained the side in his last two years, with averages of 62 and 109 respectively. He also played for Somerset after term, and had an average of 50 for them. The list of people who have made a century in their first game for their Varsity is not a long one, I think, but these two are the latest additions.

H. J. or possibly J. K. Dyson, (Charterhouse and Christchurch) is a second year man, who was tried once last year, and took two for 73, and made four. In the first match this year he took five for fifty-four.

There is a vacancy for a wicket-keeper, and N. S. Knight, (Uppingham and Wadhwa) was given a chance against Gloucester. A second year man, he may well prove in the future a useful left-hander. In L. Wazoo (Bromsgrove and B.N.C.) and the Hon. R. M. Dundas (Glenalmond and Keble) are in the running.

Other possibilities are T. M. Watson (Monkton Combe and Balliol) and K. L. T. Jackson (Rugby and Trinity). We know that the latter took 5 for 66 against Worcester. Both were tried in the 1933 Freshers' Match. A. J. Wreghitt (Barnes and Trinity) was tried against Gloucester, but failed. I do not fancy his chances. A. P. Singleton, a fresher from Shrewsbury, was tried, but we don't yet know what he did. He is a slow spinner, rather like Barlow. He can bat a bit too, as he had a school average of twenty-six. Finally, there is a complete surprise in the inclusion of J. G. Halliday (City of Oxford School and Merton). Presumably he is a bowler.

CORRESPONDENCE

A Query.

To the Editor.
Honkong Telegraph.
Sir,—The Government returns, just made public, show that there has been an increase of "Fees of Court, etc." by no less than $128,255.

Will the Colonial Treasurer please give equal publicity to the proportion of this sum representing revenue collected through the Courts from motorists and dog-owners for petty infringements of petty regulations?

CITIZEN.

The Commissioner and members of St. John Ambulance Brigade wish to thank the artists for the success of the concert held in aid of the British Empire Cancer Research Campaign concert on Saturday last, particularly Mr. Li Chai-chi for organizing, and also the following: Messrs. FRENCH CRUISER HERE

SERIES OF OFFICIAL CALLS

The French cruiser Primauguet, with the C-in-C. the French Fleet in the Far East, Rear Admiral Richard, on board arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning.

As she steamed down the harbour she fired a Royal Salute of 21 guns which was replied to from Blackhead Point. This was followed by a salute of 13 guns to the Commodore's broad pennant, to which H.M.S. Tamar replied.

During the morning, calls were exchanged. Commodore Frank Elliot paid an official call on board the Primauguet at 10 a.m. and was received with a salute of nine guns. At 10.25 a.m. the French C-in-C. landed at Queen's Pier and made calls on H. E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, and H. E. the G.O.C., Major General O. C. Borrett. The calls were returned later on board the French vessel.

RIFLE SHOOTING

Local Club Holds Competition

The May rifle shooting competition of the Hongkong Rifle Club was held at Kowloon Tong range over the week-end.

On Saturday there were seven members shooting, and conditions were at 200 yards and 500 yards but a strong wind at 600 yards made shooting at that range somewhat erratic.

On Sunday J. L. Tetley was the only member shooting, conditions were, on the whole, good. H. W. G. Todd again won the spoon in "D" Class. There was no competition in "B", only three firing.

The detailed scores follow:

	200 yds.	500 yds.	600 yds.	Total
J. L. Tetley	31	30	24	85
A. Austin	25	30	27	82
D. W. Waterson	31	31	23	85

START OF HAZARDOUS 4,000 MILE MOTOR RACE

Palermo, May 28. A chapter of accidents has already marked the hazardous "around Italy" motor race, which started from Rome yesterday. Two Italian drivers, driving Fiat cars, were injured, and died later. Two British drivers, John Walter and Harrop, in an M.G. car, were also injured. Four British cars are entered. There are 220 cars entered, with drivers of eight nationalities. The course is 4,000 miles, and the race will not finish until next Sunday. The prize is the Lictors' Gold Cup, which will be presented to the winner by Signor Mussolini.—Reuter.

Prior to the members of the Australian goodwill mission leaving by the Klano Maru on Saturday for Australia, Madame Lottie Gordon (President of the Empire and Australia Music Link) presented Mrs. J. Latham on behalf of the Hongkong branch with a beautiful shell-plink fan of unique workmanship. Mrs. Latham warmly thanked Madame Gordon and the Hongkong "Link" for their thoughtful gift.

The fan was a painted blue bird, for luck and happiness.

MRS. KAYLL'S VOLLEYS

AGAINST K.C.C.

COLONY'S NEXT LADY CHAMPION IN THE MAKING

U.S.R.C. A CINCH FOR THE MIXED
DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

(By "Veritas").

The Mixed Double tennis league championship was virtually decided yesterday when the United Services Recreation Club visited the K.C.C., and won by six sets to three.

It is, perhaps, a little unfortunate, that such a claim can be made after the second match of the season, but after yesterday's showing by the United Services, and the obvious decline of the reigning champions, one finds it difficult to imagine any other outcome.

Yesterday's tennis at the K.C.C. was highly attractive and entertaining, with the ladies playing an unusually important part. All eyes were centred on Mrs. Kayll, who, although often impetuous, and guilty of numbers of errors, showed enough skill to satisfy one that the U.S.R.C. possess the 1934 lady champion of the Colony.

BETTER AT SINGLES?
Mrs. Kayll's game is considerably more developed than most of her contemporaries in Hongkong, but I should imagine her to be a better singles exponent than doubles. Her confident covering of the Court betrays a desire to be "in at the kill", to adopt a hunting expression, and yesterday she figured in as many finishes of the rallies as Goldman, her partner.

Mrs. Kayll was not so powerful in forehand drive as one would have expected. Her anxiety to keep the ball in the court found her adopting heavy top-spin strokes which tended to suffer in length. But on the backhand she was sound, and belied early impressions that the strokes were purely defensive, by obtaining winning points therefrom.

AT THE NET.
But Mrs. Kayll was happiest at the net; not, perhaps, in the success of her shots, but in the buoyant and confident manner in which she tackled them. Her volley above the height of the net is worth noting. She definitely hits the ball, full faced, with a lot of wrist work. A

BELOW FORM.

It was a pity that Mrs. Wilson was feeling unwell and was therefore below form. Nevertheless her match with Teddy Fincher against Mrs. Kayll and Goldman was worth seeing.

The K.C.C. pair had one glorious opportunity of winning the set, but threw it away. After trailing at the first and third games, Mrs. Wilson and Fincher broke through Mrs. Kayll's service to lead 3-2. Fincher's service followed, but a bad error by Mrs. Wilson at the net, and clever volleying by Mrs. Kayll saw the advantage lost. The K.C.C. pair should have gone.

SWIMMER NEW

U.S. TO PRODUCE A CHAMPION

JACK MEDICA SHOWS GREAT PROMISE

Chicago, Ill., May 26.
Because he has broken six world swimming records in the last year, 19-year-old Jack Medica is expected to carry much of the country's hopes at the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

American athletic authorities feel that Japan is making a strong bid for swimming titles at Berlin, and they hope for a few more like Medica to meet Nipponese.

From an alternative on the United States Olympic team two years ago, Medica has developed into the greatest swimmer in this country from 220 yards to one mile.

During the four nights of the Women's National Indoor Swimming Championships here recently, Medica broke nine records.

Norman Ross, former Olympic champion, who once held 72 records, believes Medica has a chance to annex every record on the books from 220 yards to one mile.

STILL TO REACH PEAK.
"Medica's performance in breaking nine records in four nights is as great as anything I have ever seen in swimming," commented Ross. "He's not far from being the world's greatest swimmer, and he hasn't reached his peak yet."

"Like all great swimmers of the past, he has a style that the alleged experts term unorthodox. That's what they said about me and Johnny Weissmuller, but as

HAT-TRICK AGAINST AUSTRALIANS

H. J. ENTHOVEN'S GREAT FEAT

BUT TOURISTS WIN AGAIN

BRADMAN BATS: GRIMMETT BOWLS

London, May 28.
The Australians and Middlesex figured in some bright cricket at Lord's to-day, when the tourists beat the county team by ten wickets.

Some characteristically big hitting by Bradman was succeeded by a "hat-trick" by H. J. Enthoven, a Cambridge Blue for Middlesex, and some fine bowling by Grimmett, who took five wickets with consecutive deliveries.

The Australian carried their overnight score of 185 for 2, to 345 before the last wicket fell. Bradman was very aggressive, and added a further 60 runs to the three figure mark which he reached before the close on Saturday. His best hits were a six and a five together with 27 fours.

Alec Kippax also batted confidently for his 55.

NEW BOWLER.

But chief honours of the day fell to H. J. Enthoven, who, in his first over after lunch, dismissed Ebeling, Grimmett and Wall with consecutive balls. He finally returned figures of 4 for 50, while Smith, a new member of the attack, took 1 for 99.

Although only 27 runs in arrears, Middlesex made a sorry showing in their second knock, and with Grimmett at his best, were sent back for 114.

The slow bowler twice narrowly missed the "hat-trick", and in all captured five wickets for 27 runs. Set to score 23 to win, the Australians hit off the runs without loss, putting on 25 before stumps were drawn.—Reuter.

soon as he had broken all the records on the book they recognized our individual styles as orthodox. The same thing will happen as soon as Medica breaks a few more records."

Ross, who is the only swimmer to win both the 400 and 1,500-meter races in the Olympic games, predicts that Medica will duplicate his performance in the 1936 games at Berlin.

HELENE MADISON COULD BEAT HIM.
Medica is 19, weighs 185 pounds and is the third of three great swimmers to come from the Pacific Northwest. Ross was the first, then came Helene Madison, and now Medica. He started swimming in 1931 and practiced in the same pool with Helene Madison.

"For six months Helene could beat me," he recalled, "but pretty soon I got so I could take her at every distance. Training with her helped me a lot."

Ray Daughters, who developed Helene Madison, is Medica's coach. The Ross, he thinks that Medica will continue to improve until he will be unbeatable by the 1936 Olympics.

SENSATION IN FRENCH CHAMPIONSHIP

ENGLISHMEN LOSE TO MENZEL & HECHT IN THREE STRAIGHT

BRITAIN WELL REPRESENTED IN LADIES LAST EIGHT

Paris, May 28.

Overseas invaders continued to dominate the scene in to-day's continuation of the French tennis championships at Auteuil, and big crowds saw the most sensational result of the meeting to date, when Fred Perry and George Hughes, the British Davis Cup pair, and holders of the title, fell victims to R. Menzel and L. Hecht, the Czechoslovakians in the third round of the men's doubles.

Menzel and Hecht won in three straight sets with scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-2, and at no stage of the game did they appear in danger of defeat.

This is the worst beating Perry and Hughes as a combination have sustained for a considerable time. Easily the most successful combination in previous Davis Cup encounters, the French championship last year and the Australian championship only a few months ago, lent conviction to the belief that they could hold their own in the international field of tennis quite comfortably.

In the Davis Cup last year, Hughes and Perry won three doubles matches and lost two. Against Czechoslovakia they met Menzel and F. Marsalek and won in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

SOME RECOMPENSE.

The English team, however, gained some recompense by the success of H. W. Austin and C. E. Hare against the strong German couple, Von Cramm and Denker whom they beat after a gruelling five-set match. The Englishmen were trailing after the first and third sets, but came back very strongly to capture the fourth at the 12th game and the fifth at the tenth game.

The last eight in the women's singles is now complete, and finds England represented by Miss Margaret Scriven (the holder), Miss Nancy Lyle and Miss Kathleen Stammers. Other survivors are Fr. Aussem, Mme. Mathieu, Sign. Valerio, Mlle. Payot and Miss Helen Jacobs.

According to the draw, Miss Scriven will meet Miss Lyle, Fr. Aussem is opposed to Miss Stammers, Mme. Mathieu of France meets Sign. Valerio of Italy, and Mlle. Payot of Switzerland encounters Miss Helen Jacobs of America. Six nations are represented, and England is bound to supply at least

AUSTRALIAN BEATEN.

To-day Miss Stammers accomplished an excellent performance in beating Miss Joan Hartigan, the Australian lady champion by the scores of 6-3, 6-4, while Miss Helen Jacobs had an easy task against Miss Hardwick, another English competitor, winning 6-0, 6-1.

An Anglo-Polish alliance met with success in the second round of the women's doubles, when Miss Susan Noel and Mlle. Jedzejowska overcame the well-known British pair, Miss Nuthall and Miss Scriven in straight sets.

The scores as cabled by Reuter follow.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Third Round

R. Menzel and L. Hecht (Czechoslovakia) beat F. J. Perry and G. P. Hughes (England) 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

H. W. Austin and C. E. Hare (England) beat Von Cramm and Denker (Germany) 3-5, 12-10, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4.

LADIES' SINGLES.

Third Round

Miss K. Stammers (England) beat Miss J. Hartigan (Australia) 6-3, 6-4.

Miss H. Jacobs (U.S.A.) beat Miss Hardwick (England) 6-0, 6-1.

LADIES' DOUBLES.

Second Round

Miss Susan Noel (G.B.) and Mlle. Jedzejowska (Poland) beat Miss Nuthall and Miss Scriven (England) 6-3, 6-1.

THE VARSITIES AT CRICKET

OXFORD ELEVEN IN THE MAKING

(By R. Abbie)

There is little doubt that to the man in the street, especially in England, the County Championship is all in all, save when the Australians are spending a summer in England. But there are a great many people, all of them players or past-players of the game, to whom the great event of the cricket season is the encounter, at Lord's, between Oxford and Cambridge.

Yorkshire may become Champions for the umpteenth time, or a new County name be so hailed for the first time. It is very interesting, but who won at Lord's? There are 150,000 people in the Colony who come in this category, but, while perhaps I write more particularly for them, I trust, and venture to think, that most local players will find the subject of interest.

For the Varsity is the chief, though not the only, source of English amateur cricket. It may even be that a few of my younger readers may some day go up to Oxford or Cambridge themselves, while some of the Blues, of whom we read, may come here. Last season we had the pleasure of seeing both Mayhew and Hill-Wood here, both of whom had figured in articles, similar to this, which I have published in the past. And some of those I may mention in these forthcoming articles may yet be knocking the cover off the ball in Hongkong.

THE CAPTAIN'S POSITION.

Long before term time the Varsity captains have a pretty good idea of the situation with which they will have to deal. They know the number of old Blues that will be in residence, and are well acquainted with the play of the various Seniors who will be available. Many of these will probably have been tried for the Varsity already.

They also have a pretty accurate knowledge of the ability of the various Freshmen coming into residence. Infinitely more now is done for school cricket than was done at the beginning of the century, and there is little chance now of a good Freshman getting no entry trial because, coming from a small school, no one knew anything about him until he started making a reputation in College cricket.

All that has been changed, and the School games arranged for the Summer Term at Lord's and the Oval by the M. C. C. and, I think, the Surrey County Club, give all useful aspirants a chance to show their mettle. Success against the Army, or in the Lord's Schools, or the game means an early trial if the player goes to a Varsity. I am told that next year's Varsity captains, if not there in person, have skilled judges of the game watching the new entry for them.

MANY ARE CALLED.

Thus the Captain has a pretty fair advance knowledge of his material. His great difficulty is to select the right men, who have found their form, possess the "Lord's" temperament, and at the same time will build up into a well balanced team.

And it is a most difficult job. So many merit trial, and the season lasts so short a time! Besides the Varsity match, a bare dozen games only are played as a rule. Moreover, during Term time, the side is cut to bits, because there are sure to be some senior men, who are taking Schools or Tripos. The Captain himself is usually in this position, and it does not help. However, this is the task with which he is faced.

To begin with, it is by no means a rule that "once a Blue, always a Blue." Every year, even old Blues must play himself into the side, and it is the rule rather than the exception to find one or two old Blues dropping out each season. The only consideration, merit excepted, is perhaps a faint bias towards playing Freshmen in the team, where reasonably possible, so as to provide experienced players, as well as Secretaries and Captains in the future.

FEW ARE CHOSEN.

Out of all the dozens of good cricketers, the Captain can only select ten men besides himself. It is a big job. There were, at the beginning of the 1933 season, eight old Blues. Add to these twenty-two from the Freshers' match, and twenty-two from the Seniors'. That makes fifty-two players, apart from later discoveries, from which an eleven must be selected! For Oxford, twenty-six men were tried, for Cambridge, twenty! Who would be a Varsity captain? The only bright spot in his lot is that he is an absolute autocrat, and his selection is seldom criticised—in public, anyway.

OXFORD.

In this article, I propose to deal with the prospects of Oxford alone, and will start with the fact that F. G. H. Chalk, (Uppingham & B.N.C.) is captain. He got his Blue as a Freshman in 1931, when Oxford won by eight wickets. He is a useful bat, but at Lord's he has only scored 10 (1931), 7 (1932), and 0 & 10 not out (1933) although this last innings probably saved the match. D. F. Walker, also Uppingham & B.N.C., who got in as a Freshman last year and made 46 & 4 against Cambridge in

New College) and R. G. Stainton (Malvern & B.N.C.), who are batsmen, and E. A. Barlow (Shrewsbury & B.N.C.) and R. G. Tindall (Winchester & Trinity), who are stock bowlers, are a very useful number nine batsman, by the way.

Both Stainton and Tindall are fourth-year men, though they only got their Blues last year. Barlow played in 1931 and 1932, getting his Blue as a Freshman. Townsend was in the Winchester eleven of 1931, but for some reason or other was not put into the 1932 Freshers' side. However, he made a century in the 1933 Seniors' match, got his Blue, and finished top of the Oxford averages with 20—1—734—38.63.

There are also two 1932 Blues in residence, who were dropped in 1933. A. R. Legard (Winchester & Trinity) is a fastish medium bowler, who was dropped at the last minute for Jenkins, (whose brother in Shanghai we all know), a manoeuvre which probably saved the game. Oxford need a fast bowler this year, and except Jackson there seems to be little talent, so I should have thought that Legard stood some chance, but he has Schools on, and I see that the Times does not fancy his chances.

E. N. Evans (Hallebury & Wadham) though he is a pretty left-handed bat on his day, is a fourth year man, and not likely to get back. He is one of the many good cricketers who have never done themselves justice at Oxford.

OXFORD'S RECORD TO DATE.

As the Seniors and Freshers' matches at Oxford were largely spoilt by rain, it is difficult at present to see up the various candidates. First of all, however, I will briefly run through the Oxford-record to date, as reported by Reuter.

As my readers probably know, the scores telegraphed are irritatingly brief, and only centuries and bags of five or more wickets are reported, except in the case of popular heroes. So there are very many sound performances of which we never hear until the papers come out.

However, we know that so far Oxford have played five matches, of which four have been drawn, and one against the Australians, lost, by an

to 4-2, but they were pulled back to three-all, and from that point the visitors were always on top, although Fincher and Mrs. Wilson did manage to snatch the ninth game in gallant fashion.

Mrs. Kayll was at her best in the closing games of this set. She engaged Fincher in volleying duels and several times came off best by adroit placing.

So far as the home team were concerned the honours of the day clearly went to Miss Griffiths and Bertie Guest. They not only beat Major and Mrs. Withington, and drew with Captain Cannon and Mrs. Lewis Bryan (whom they ought to have beaten), but they seriously threatened Goldman and Mrs. Kayll.

Against the U.S.R.C. No. 1 pair they led three-love, indulging in a highly successful lobbing campaign from which the visitors were a bit fortunate to emerge with the points. Some deep lobbing by the losers in the latter games just missed their objective, and neither Goldman nor his partner would take risks in playing them, and quite rightly too.

A BIG MISTAKE.

Only against Captain Cannon and Mrs. Lewis Bryan did they lose their team work. Leading 4-1, it appeared as though they would walk away with the set, but Cannon took command of the net, standing just inside the service courts, and the K.C.C. players made the mistake of hanging away at him instead of dropping short drives down the side lines and across court.

Cannon played very fine tennis all through. He saved half a point against both Fincher and Guest and easily had the measure of Ernie Fincher and Mrs. Miller, who again suffered three defeats.

Mrs. Withington's fierce forehand driving played a notable part in the matches in which she played with Major Withington. They took Teddy Fincher and Mrs. Wilson to the full distance, and polished off Ernie Fincher and Mrs. Miller with little difficulty.

It was this balance which chiefly impressed with the U.S.R.C. The ladies can all hold their own, and their baseline strokes are good enough to create many openings for the men at the net.

MAX BRILKA.

GERMAN BOXER

Arrives in Colony To Secure Fights

An interesting arrival in the Colony yesterday was Max Brilka, a German welterweight boxer, who is anxious to fight anybody in Hongkong between the weights of nine and eleven stones.

Thirty-one years of age, Max Brilka has not been in the game for any great length of time, but since he first entered the ring five years ago, he has had approximately 140 fights and has never been knocked out. He has won a great majority of his bouts and has just arrived from a tour of other cities in the Far East.

The former welterweight champion of Germany was born on a farm near Paderborn, near the town of Paderborn, in Silesia, Germany on March 16, 1903. He first took to medicine, but gave up the idea of dissections to become a boxer.

Brilka proudly claims Max Schmeling, the former world's champion, as his best pal and also that one of his close relations, Dr. Frohke, was so renowned and clever that he was at one time presented to German Royalty.

From Germany he travelled to Johannesburg, from there he wandered to Australia, then to Shanghai, Kobe, Tokyo, Yokohama, the Philippines and then to India, from where he has now arrived in Hongkong. In all these places he excelled himself in first class boxing. He has met some well-known exponents and during his tour of the East he fought the American boxer, Gunboat Jack, Battling Guillerme and others.

Brilka is now staying at the European Y.M.C.A. in Kowloon and is keen on getting in touch with local aspirants.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Contract Problem

Never take anything for granted at bridge. Don't assume, just because you hold three honours in a suit, that the outstanding honours should be split.

Always try to provide for the outstanding cards being in the worst possible position for you and then see if you can find a way to make your contract.

Don't resort to a finesse unless you know there is no other course in the hand and that it is the safest play.

To-day's hand, while not difficult, has several stumbling blocks for the careless declarer to trip over.

North's jump to three hearts is just a little optimistic. While he does have two aces and four trump to the queen, he has a four-three-three-three distribution and nothing to establish—no ruffing values. With this type of hand I believe it safer just to bid two hearts rather than give your partner a game force.

In to-day's hand we find South, after the jump to three hearts, going to four hearts on a four-card suit. The only reason he does that is because of his 100 honours.

A four-card suit headed by A K J 10, with support from partner, is as good as a five-card suit.

The Play

West's opening lead is the king of diamonds. Before playing to the first trick, declarer must stop to count. He has two losing diamonds and, if the king and queen of spades are in the West and, he may lose two spade tricks.

He can see that it will be possible to pick up the outstanding trump, strip the hand of clubs, and if he can throw West in the lead, he can prevent the loss of the two spade tricks. His best play, then, is to refuse to win the first diamond trick.

West should continue with the jack of diamonds—not the queen. When holding the K-Q-J, lead the king first and then the jack. This trick is won by the declarer with the ace. Three rounds of hearts are taken, which pick up the outstanding trump, and then three rounds of clubs.

The declarer now can lead the ten of diamonds, as he knows West will be forced to win with the queen. West is helpless.

If he leads a diamond, the declarer can discard a spade from one hand and ruff in the other, while if he leads the king of spades, the declarer will win with the ace and lose only one spade trick.

If the declarer had taken the spade finesse earlier in the hand, before stripping the hand of clubs,

Fit One Day—Off Colour The Next!

So it goes on, until the number of days when you are really "fit" is much in the minority, definite signs that your blood stream has become impoverished, and with it your resistance to disease is weakening. If you are wise you will take steps without further delay to remedy this state of affairs before illness supervenes, for this is inevitable if the blood remains weak, thin and impure for any great length of time.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS, the prescription of a British physician, an M.D. of Edinburgh University, have been the world's most famous blood and nerve tonic for fifty years.

Throughout that long period they have earned many encomiums from the medical profession, and only recently their merits were again put to severe test by a physician, with as his reports, almost amazingly satisfactory results. Eleven anemic, run-down patients were placed upon a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by this doctor, samples of their blood being examined before they began taking the pills and again one month later. In ten cases a definite increase in haemoglobin was registered, haemoglobin being the substance which carries oxygen from the lungs and nutriment from the food digested in the intestines to the innermost cells of all the organs and tissues of the body, and the patients all reported that they definitely felt better and stronger. The one case showing no improvement was proved to be due to two defective teeth which were poisoning the blood stream, and after these had been removed the improvement in haemoglobin was excellent, 21% in two months.

If you are run-down, depressed, nervous, lack appetite, strength and vigour, begin a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to-day, you know that you are taking a well tried remedy which has proved of great benefit to similar sufferers over a period of fifty years. Equally good for men and women, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a safe preparation for children who are run-down, pale, weak and ailing, and they are a splendid builder after colds, measles, whooping cough. You can obtain Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from chemists everywhere.

This contract would have been defeated.

work that needed to be done, that was another matter.

"I—you're terribly nice to think of it," she murmured.

The details were arranged.

Marko was most businesslike about it all. No one in his senses, thought Gypsy with pride, could have suspected him of an unworthy motive. His man would be there to receive her, everything would be ready. This was what? The twenty-first? Well, she could start work the following week, if she liked.

"And, of course, I shall give you an advance," Marko smiled.

Gypsy protested, but to no avail. A banknote was pressed into her reluctant palm. Marko had given her address to the chauffeur through the speaking tube, but she had scarcely noticed that they were drawing up before her own door.

"Saturday, then!" Marko handed her out as though she were a princess.

Gypsy turned and waved goodbye. Then she sped like an arrow through the flying snowflakes into the lobby. Surely that was Tom's tall figure she had seen, just rounding the corner. She was conscious of heightened colour and quickened heartbeat. She told herself that

Tom needn't know about her part with Marko just now—he might not like it, and there was no use quarrelling about it.

The hallboy held the elevator door wide and Gypsy slipped within, stuffing the bill into her purse.

She had scarcely done so before Tom strode through the lobby.

"Here comes Miss Weaver," the boy grinned. Gypsy was terribly nervous. Had Tom seen her enter? Ought she to tell him?

After all, there was nothing wrong in her encounter.

His look of pleased surprise and his greeting dispelled the suspicion. The words were on the tip of her tongue. "I just ran into Marko Broughton."

But she fought them back. Something warned her this was not a propitious time to tell him. The banknote burned, it seemed to her, through the thin lining of her purse.

Oh, she would buy Tom the platinum watch. She would give him a really nice Christmas present.

Because she had taken a lightning glance at the note just before

Tom entered. It was a $50 bill.

No, she couldn't possibly tell him now. He would never understand in the world. It would be a secret she would have to keep for some time to come.

SUDDEN DEATH OF YOUNG COLONY RESIDENT

Mr. Antonio Maria Barros Rocha, who served for ten years with the Hongkong Tramway Co., died yesterday at his home, 59A Wong Nei Chong Road, aged 32 years.

The late Mr. Rocha is survived by his widow and his father, Mr. A. J. C. da Rocha, a well-known resident of the Colony.

The deceased was a popular member of the H.K.V.D.C. and was a particularly fine marksman, winning many awards. He was also a member of the C.C.C. and a keen bowler.

Mr. Rocha died very suddenly, though he had been ailing slightly for some time.

MARITAL WOES

MARRYING MIVANIS IN TROUBLE

The New York Mirror in a copy-right report, says that Mr. Franklyn Hutton, wealthy Director of the famous Woolworth stores, has left for Paris as the result of urgent appeals from his daughter Barbara, who is the wife of Prince Alexis, one of the marrying Mdivanis.

The Mirror predicts an absolute divorce as the result of the couple's quarrel.

First reports of their marital difficulties were received from Hongkong while they were on a round-the-world tour.—United Press.

When Prince and Princess Alexis Mdivani started their "honeymoon" tour around the world earlier this year, they travelled from the United States to Japan by different ships.

Princess Alexandra in California prevented the husband of Barbara Hutton, the richest woman in the world, from joining his wife in California. His sensational flight by aeroplane to escape the court officials, who sought to subpoena him in connection with fraud proceedings against his two brothers, provided one of the American sensations of the year.

The young couple passed through Hongkong on March 17 by the Lloyd Triestino liner Conte Verde, and it was whilst they were here that rumours first gained currency that all was not well.

Interviewed, passengers and members of the crew of the Conte Verde stated that the couple were rarely together, and when a newspaper representative asked Prince Alexis to deny rumours of a disagreement, he refused to reply.

Two other members of the amazing Mdivani family were married in America, and when they attended the wedding of Barbara Hutton and Prince Alexis

HIGH TRIBUTES TO MR. MORRIS

The growth of the St. John Ambulance Brigade in Hongkong and Kowloon and the expansion of its work to the villages of the New Territories, was referred to by speakers at a farewell tea party, given at the Gloucester Building yesterday afternoon, in honour of the Commissioner, Mr. Alfred Morris, who is retiring from the Government Service and is proceeding on holiday on June 1. He is returning to Hongkong, however, to continue his work with the Brigade.

The Hon. Sir William Shenton, who presided, and three Corps officers, spoke in eulogistic terms of the work done by their departing Commissioner, who, as one of the speakers said, "was respected and admired most as a friend of suffering humanity."

Nearly 300 sat down to tea and among those present were Sir William Shenton, Major Anderson, R.A.M.C., Mrs. R. Langley (Corps Secretary), Miss Alice Kwok, Messrs. Ho Kung-tong, Tang Shu-kin, Wong Kwan-in, Chau Man-chi, A. C. Arculli, J. Rakston, E. M. Raymond, Ng Wah, Kwok Hin-wang, Fung Ki-cheuk, Mok Kon-sang, Chak Tai-kwong, Dr. H. C. Arculli, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Dr. T. P. Woo, Dr. E. Q. Lin, Dr. D. K. Sany, Dr. Ma Luk, Dr. Arthur Woo, Dr. Y. C. Teh, Dr. Ip Kam-wa, Dr. F. I. Tsung.

In June, actions were pending against both. Serge Mdivani's wife, Mary McCormic, the famous operatic star, was applying for separate maintenance, while Prince David's wife, Mae Murray, the film star, was seeking divorce.

Alexis was previously married to Louise Astor van Alen, great-granddaughter of Mrs. William Astor, Serge was formerly married to Pola Negri.

TOLEDO QUIET.

NO DISTURBANCES ON SUNDAY

New York, May 28. Although high tension continues at Toledo, Ohio, scene of several grave encounters last week, Sunday passed without disorder.

The mob of strikers that has been menacing the Autolite Works for four days refrained from further attacks.

The troops, however, did not relax precautions, going through their routine duties and maintaining their defence lines.

Reports from San Francisco are not encouraging. The longshoremen strikers and the employers were in conference together for some hours yesterday, but reliable reports state that no progress has been made.

There were several minor clashes between strikers and strike-breakers in the course of the day.—United Press.

SERIES OF LECTURES.

DR. E. L. ALLEN TO SPEAK AT HOP YAT CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. E. L. Allen, M.A., Ph.D., Minister of the Kowloon Union Church, will give a series of five lectures on "The Social Principles of Jesus" at the Hop Yat Church, Bonham Road.

The series will start on Thursday evening, May 31, at 8 p.m.

It is hoped that the public, especially the young people will take advantage of and attend Dr. Allen's scholarly interpretations of the following subjects:—1.—An Reverence for Personality; 2.—An Adventurer for Christ; 3.—The Christian and Politics; 4.—The Christian and Money; 5.—Life's Highest Law.

STEAMER AUCTIONED.

OLD COASTER CHANGES
HANDS FOR $30,000

After many years on the China Coast the steamship To Chu Kung, experienced another change of ownership yesterday, when, at a public auction held by Messrs. Lammett, she was sold to Mr. Wong Chiu for the sum of $30,000. Mr. Wong Chiu was the only bidder and he offered $5,000 over the upset price. Eighteen months ago the steamer was sold to the previous owner for $20,000, since when she had been operating on the China Coast under the Chinese flag.

resulting in her being laid up in Hongkong and in a mortgage being effected on the vessel and her forced sale yesterday by the mortgagee.

The steamer has had a varied career, being at one time known as the Castor, then the Nordmark, and next as the Yuan Jeng.

KAYE DON IN MIDNIGHT SMASH

CAR OVERTURNS IN LONELY ROAD

MECHANIC BADLY INJURED

London, May 29.

Kaye Don, the famous racing motorist, who has been much in the public eye through his attempts to recapture the Harmsworth motor-boat speed trophy in Miss England III, had a fortunate escape from death last night.

He was involved with his mechanic, F. Taylor, in a midnight motor-smash near Douglas, in the Isle of Man, in which both were injured.

Kaye Don had been at a card party and was returning to Douglas, taking out his M. G. magnum car, which he had entered in a race for to-morrow.

The car overturned completely in a narrow winding road. Kaye Don was thrown clear and is suffering from nothing more serious than superficial injuries. His mechanic, Taylor, was very seriously smashed up and is not expected to live.—Reuter.

ARGENTINA'S THREAT TO AGREEMENT

Demanding Third of World Market

London, May 29.

The meeting of the Wheat Advisory Board which was to have been held in London yesterday was postponed.

According to the Daily Telegraph, Argentina is threatening to break last autumn's world agreement unless her demand for one-third of the total world market is conceded.

Australia, Canada and the United States have offered to meet the Argentinian demand half-way, but it is indicated that up to the present, Argentina has not accepted.

A member of the committee described the outlook as gloomy but not hopeless.—Reuter.

CHINESE STUDENT KILLED

NANKING PROTESTS TO TOKYO

Nanking, May 28.

THE RIDDLE OF ROOM 423

CHINESE GIRL'S ADALIN DOSE

MANY TELEPHONE CALLS

What is the riddle of Room 423 at the Gloucester Building from which Miss Alice Chan was removed to the G.C.H. last night suffering from an overdose of Adalin?

Miss Alice Chan, who is about 20 years of age, is understood to belong to a well-to-do family in Hongkong. It is learned that she was not a regular resident of Gloucester Apartments, but had moved in only that day.

She arrived without luggage at about 3 p.m. and took a room, No. 423, on the fourth floor.

She appeared anxious to get into touch with someone, and after repeated but unavailing efforts over the telephone, wrote a letter which she had delivered by a messenger boy at a certain address in the city.

AGITATED BY LETTER.

The messenger later returned with what appeared to be a reply, and it was noticed that Miss Chan was much agitated by it. Thereafter she remained shut in her room.

At about 7 o'clock a young Chinese, in European dress, and of about the same age as Miss Chan called for her. He found Miss Chan lying on a bed in a semi-comatose condition. It was obvious that she was very ill.

Shortly afterwards, four other young Chinese inquiring for the couple, also went into a room.

One of these four telephoned for medical aid, and when Dr. Ma Wai-man arrived he diagnosed a case of poisoning.

Dr. Ma then had her removed to the Government Civil Hospital in an ambulance. There she was visited by other young Chinese of both sexes.

Miss Chan has responded to treatment, and is now doing as well as can be expected.

KOWLOON LADY IN HOSPITAL

AN OVERDOSE OF ADALIN

Mrs. Bewick, a guest at the Airline Hotel, Kowloon, was removed to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday. She was found to have been somewhat seriously affected by an overdose of Adalin.

At the Hospital it was stated this morning that Mrs. Bewick has recovered and it is expected that she will be able to leave in a day or two. She is a daughter of Mr. C. A. Grimes, of the P.W.D.

Codos and Rossi Just Make Land

New York, May 28. Codos and Rossi failed in their attempt to establish a new long-distance non-stop record. They were compelled to land at North Truro, in Massachusetts, on the edge of Cape Cod, having barely made land.—Reuter.

FLIERS SURPRISE NEW YORK

CODOS AND ROSSI ARRIVE WITH BURNED-OUT GENERATOR

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, May 29, 11 a.m.)

New York, May 29.

A surprise was provided for the ground staff at Floyd Bennett airport, New York, this afternoon when the French airmen, Codos and Rossi, who had been reported as landed in Massachusetts, appeared over the airport.

They landed safely at 1.37 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, after having dumped the large surplus gasoline which would have been sufficient to carry them on to San Francisco.

It appears, however, that their machine was virtually disabled owing to a burned-out generator.

Their time from Paris to New York was 38 hours, 37 minutes, which compares with the record of 37 hours, 17 minutes, established by their countrymen, Costes and Bellonte.

They failed, of course, to break the New York to Syria record, and seemed very dejected about their failure to reach San Francisco.—United Press.

U.S. ARMS EMBARGO

AGAINST GRAN CHACO WARRIORS

IMPRISONMENT AND FINE

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1925. Received, May 29, 1 a.m.)

Washington, May 28.

Having decided to respond to the appeal from Geneva to join other nations in the world in preventing the export of arms and ammunition to Bolivia and Paraguay, the United States has decided to act immediately without waiting for other countries to fall into line.

President Roosevelt to-day issued a proclamation forbidding sales of munitions to participants in the Gran Chaco war.

The penalty for infringement will be imprisonment for two years and a fine of $10,000.

The President also signed the Bill, passed through Congress at his request, outlawing the sales of arms or munitions to any belligerents except under limitations which the President is given power to prescribe.—United Press.

FISHING JUNKS COLLIDE

THREE MEN BELIEVED DROWNED

Three of the crew of a fishing junk, which left Hongkong last week, are believed to have been drowned in a collision with another junk on Friday night off Waglan.

The only survivor was the junkmaster, and he states that the mishap occurred while they were fishing off Waglan.

Tientsin, May 29.

Following a Chinese protest, the three Chinese police arrested by Japanese troops in the Lanhsien district, have been set free. The incident is regarded as closed. It is alleged that the policemen were injured as the result of maltreatment by the Japanese.—Central News.

Members of the Graingerover Cricket Club are reminding that a whist drive will be held at the Club on Saturday evening, starting at 8 o'clock and that tickets should be sent to the Club.

JAPANESE TROOP TRAIN WRECKED

SCORES KILLED AND WOUNDED

Harbin, May 29.

Scores of Japanese soldiers were killed and wounded when they fell into an ambush on the railway yesterday, as the result of a daring coup by a strong force of anti-Manchukuo bandits.

The bandits pulled up the track on the Muling branch line near Pamyatun, and a Japanese troop train, speeding towards Muling, was derailed and wrecked.

Before the troops aboard her had had an opportunity to collect themselves, the bandits, lying in ambush, were pouring a fusillade of bullets into the soldier passengers as they staggered out of the wreck.

The full extent of the casualties is not yet known, but about thirty-five Japanese were killed outright and the number of wounded is greatly in excess.—Reuter.

SAN FRANCISCO RIOTING

WILD SCENES ON THE WATERFRONT

San Francisco, May 28. Wild rioting occurred on the waterfront to-day after the announcement that the compromise plan for the settlement of the longshoremen's strike had been rejected by the men.

Fifteen hundred strikers clashed with five hundred police, who used their truncheons and tear gas bombs and fired shot-guns into the air.

Eight of the most seriously injured were sent to hospital, but there were scores of minor casualties. A number of policemen were badly beaten up.—Reuter.

PARLIAMENT TO MEET TO-DAY

PROSPECTS OF BUSY SESSION

London, May 28.

Parliament will reassemble to-morrow.

Among the most important measures for discussion by the Commons before the session concludes, at the end of July or the beginning of August, are the Betting and Lotteries Bill, the Petroleum Protection Bill and the Tithes Bill, which have been initiated in the House of Lords, and the Road Traffic Bill, which is designed to lessen the risk of road accidents and includes a proposal to limit speed in built-up areas to thirty miles hourly.

The remaining stages of the Finance Bill and several other measures also await consideration.—British Wireless.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Smart and simply made, you'll like the attractive frock the Chic twins are showing to-day. It's designed in six sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 (with corresponding bust measures of 32, 34, 36 and 38), and also in 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 4 3-8 yards of 32 inch material or 3 5-8 yards of 35 inch material without the skirt front flounces.

Modern Viewpoint on Kissing and Petting

By Olive Roberts Barton.

What about the kiss? That unimportant, important little item that blows to the moon yet swings the earth on its axis? We hear less of "petting" and "necking" than formerly. Has something gone wrong? Or rather gone right? Isn't Joe kissing Jennie any more when he brings her home from the High-School dance, pushes the bell, and goes off whistling into the dark, leaving her to waken the family if she can, while he treks toward Pete's Place for a hamburger?

I have a suspicion that he is. I have a fair idea that there is almost as much petting as ever, and that Joe and Jennie aren't much different from the Jacks and Janes of the post-war period, before bridge conversation turned from flaming youth to political forums.

What has happened? A good buster and a good-night hug does not bring a flower-pot or a boot hurrying from a second-story window at least, and the kisses are no longer locked in her room on bread and water to repent her misdeeds.

The Honest Attitude

To tell the truth when mother made Jennie that peach-coloured dress and sent her off to the dance looking like a piece of candy, sweet enough to eat, she very probably knew away down in her heart that Joe, or Dick or that other red-headed fellow would not be able to resist an osculatory adieu at the door. In fact, if no one ever kissed her Jennie she might even begin to think Jennie looked better in blue.

Let's be honest. Almost every fond mother likes to think her child irresistible. And there is no use in thinking the world is going to end if someone kisses her. But there is no use in thinking her a failure if somebody doesn't either. I'm beginning to think almost the opposite myself.

And now I am going to get really serious.

There are kisses and kisses, and petting and petting. There are two kinds of both and we all know it.

I resent the custom that permits a careful of young people, or just two, to indulge in any type of passionate embrace that cheapens and marks them.

I resent the kiss that is anything but a wholesome smack, or the hug that is more than a spontaneous squeeze.

Harm of Cheap "Spooning"

And I will tell you why. It leaves its mark in indelible ink, this form of cheap "spooning" as it used to be called. It creates an attitude toward life without reservations or sanctity of self, and leads to emotional satiation that robs later years of their glory.

I believe that the young girl who gets accustomed to the thrill

THE MYSTERY OF SCENT

Value of Eau de Cologne

How does a butterfly find its mate? It cannot be by smell alone, at least not by that coarse material emanation commonly assumed to be the "carrier wave" of olfactory sensations, for there are certain moths which trace a female for miles even against a high wind.

There must consequently be something more ethereal in this irresistible attraction, perhaps some subtle radiation as the real face behind the mask of scent. How otherwise could it happen that animals sometimes herald the approaching death of their master by their strange behaviour, unless they felt an unaccountable change in the familiar smell of the healthy body?

This mystery of scent has baffled human science until the present day, just as it baffled our simple-minded ancestors from the dawn of Time. Not without reason was the use of perfumes therefore originally reserved for the service of the gods. The very word "perfume" conjures up a picture of burning incense before dimly lit altars, of myrrh and sandalwood, and sweet-scented oil in the sacred lamps of the dead.

It was possibly this association of ideas which was later on responsible for the use of perfumes to propitiate evil spirits in the sick chamber, just as the stimulating or disinfecting properties of certain natural essences made them widely utilized for more material reasons throughout the middle ages. Yes, even to-day we take refuge to the comforting freshness of "4711" Eau de Cologne whenever we are tired or run down. Surely it is not merely for its cooling fragrance that we value this familiar refreshment, but just as much for the psychological effect or its stimulating aroma on jaded nerves and weary brains. And so we better take the boon of smelling at its face value, since we are still as far away from solving its secrets as we were thousands of years ago. Instead of brooding on the How and Why, we should rather stick to the facts and enjoy the fragrance of the rose and the tang of the sea-as-the-heaven-sent gifts that they are.

Of indiscriminate petting will not be likely to thrill any too long when she is married, to the caresses of one man. She will consider marriage, very likely, as just one more experience to be taken in her stride, and will apply the theme of repetition as she did with her petting. Marriage becomes mere marketing and divorce ensues.

Of course this is not the inevitable result. Many such girls do settle down and make splendid wives and mothers. But the influence is pernicious, no matter how pure she may be morally and it causes unhappiness.

It is time that some of our boys learned to treat a girl to a party or a show without a petting-party in the back of their heads as thanks.

To throw up one's hands and declare that nothing can be done is erroneous. It can. A concerted movement on the part of parents would have tremendous effect.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

GYPSEY MOORE and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement school. On the first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GILAY, an old friend of Tom's, telephones. Later Vera calls and she and Gypsy drink each other. Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their European honeymoon. Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO HLOUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He shows her with attention which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in LILA HOTALING.

CHAPTER XI

The streets were full of scurrying crowds. Already, although it was early afternoon, the lamps were lighted, moons glowing in a blue dusk. All along the avenue these lamps made a chain and people, hurrying past, through the snow, scuffled on without noticing. The shop windows were gay with tinsel and ribboned boxes and glittering things to eat and to wear. There were skis and white woolly sweaters and neckties and bracelets and boxes of candied fruit and here a whole windowful of peanut brittle, magnificently turned out in a gilded barrel. For a dollar you could buy a frilled collar or a book or a string of imitation pearls or an artificial orchid.

The trouble was, Tom Weaver wanted none of these. He wandered along, with his coat collar up, staring and puzzling about what to get Gypsy. She should have (he thought) that delicious silvery squirrel coat in the corner shop. She should have a glittering string of real jewels to adorn her pretty throat. And he groaned to himself for a stupid fool because he could not buy her these things. For there was the rent to be thought of, and the monthly bills, and the first of January staring in the face.

Christmas! Oh, it would be a glorious thing if a man could go out with his hand in his pocket and buy what he saw—this and

He was discontented. Christmas ought to be a time to make folks happy, but it didn't affect Tom that way. When he had been younger and the sum of happiness had been bound up in a pair of skates or a train of ears or boots with a Boy Scout knife thrown in, then life had been simpler. Now he was grown, he had a young and lovely wife, and he was too poor to get her the sort of gift her youth and beauty deserved.

So he trudged along, staring moodily into first this window and then that one. Christmas was only four days away and still he had nothing for Gypsy. Ten dollars—fifteen—twenty—that was the very most he could spend. He felt cheap and mean. He considered perfume, but the bottle he wanted was too small. He went into shop after shop, getting, in his male fashion, more and more depressed and bewildered. Women—it was funny!—seemed to love the business of shopping. They elbowed and pushed and reached around other people's shoulders, snatching "specials" from the bargain counters.

At last he bought her a bottle of scent—mimosas, it was—and a book she had been wanting and a pair of gloves, long, sleek, white ones. Christmas morning he would add roses and her favourite candy. But he was still dissatisfied. His mood of discouragement hung over him. It was a half day at the office. He had nothing further to do and Gypsy herself was shopping. But he was not conscious of the Christmas spirit. He was disgusted with himself for not being a captain of finance—like Marko Broughton.

Meantime, Gypsy went briskly

about her purchasing. She had things for Mums and Daddy and the twins. She had a resplendent rose crepe kimono for Clytie. But Tom? He was last on her list, because closest and best beloved. He needed—oh, everything! Socks and ties and shirts and gloves. But what precious things, thought Gypsy, humorously, to put on the altar of the loved one.

What she wanted, really, was to buy him one of those water-thin platinum watches. He carried his father's heavy old one and it stuck when you tried to open it. She wanted to buy him an opulent blue satin dressing gown so that he might look like a second-act hero. She wanted to buy him a top hat, because he would look so well in one, and Derek Bliss owned one. But how?

After a while she got dreadfully tired. During the early part of the afternoon the crowds had given her a sense of mild exhilaration. But now that feeling had dwindled and she was conscious mainly of an ache in her shoulder and of immense fatigue. You were pulled this way and that. You never knew which way you were going. The crowd sucked you in and drew you along like the tide.

Somehow she found herself in a little corner sweet-shop. It was more expensive than those she usually patronized but she was actually too tired to go any farther at the moment. In a corner, behind a screen of greenery, an orchestra played softly. Waitresses in smart yellow uniforms flitted to and fro with laden trays. A tall, exquisitely dressed young woman beckoned Gypsy to a table. She sat down and put her few pence on the other chair. Without even glancing around her, she drew forth her compact and proceeded to powder her nose. This done, she felt her self-respect restored. She did not look so dragged as she had feared. The wet wind had added roses, to her cheeks.

She looked down at the menu in its silver holder. Tea and toast would restore her feeling of gaiety. She sat back, giving her order, and glanced about her.

Quite without warning, her eyes met those of the man at the next table. He had risen . . . he was bowing . . . now he was coming toward her.

"Marko—" Gypsy murmured. And indeed he was the last person on earth you would have expected to find here!

Marko's manner with her was perfect. No hint, now, of the discarded gallant. No, he was almost fatherly. How was she—and that handsome husband of hers? She was looking well . . . and so on and so on.

Gypsy found herself babbling to him of all sorts of things. The waitress fluttered over, removing his order to her table, and they settled cozily down to a talk. He was suave, he was polished, thought Gypsy, and yet you felt he really cared what happened to you—to all his friends. She told him about her afternoon. How Tom would have hated to hear her! But indeed there was nothing disloyal in her conversation. It was just an innocent outpouring.

Presently Marko knew everything. About Tom's cut, and the watch she wanted to get him, but couldn't, and the apartment and all the rest.

"My dear child . . ." His eyes were almost suffused. That was one embarrassing thing about Marko, he wept easily. "My dear child, you really must let me help you."

All at once she realized what she was doing. She caught herself up. "But really, Marko, I love it. It's fun. You mustn't mind what I say." She was bitterly ashamed of herself for having said anything. But that was the worst of being a babbling. Her mother had always warned her against it.

"No, no." He was patting her hand now. He was all gentleness and sympathetic interest. "It's a shame a lovely child like you hasn't everything she wants. You must let me do something, really."

There was more of this. Gypsy protested, she would gladly have bitten her tongue out to have recalled some of her confidences. At length she managed to convince Marko that she meant what she said. Of course he was used to women trying to get things from him! Naturally that was what he had thought she meant. Her cheeks burned at the thought.

She finished her tea and Marko paid for it. His fur-collared coat, his expensive soft hat made him look a little like a corpulent opera singer. Gypsy was conscious of hands turning to watch them as they left the shop. She was just about to give him her hand in parting when a great car slid up from no where and a uniformed man held open the door.

"Nonsense, my dear, I'm dropping you wherever you want to go," Marko handed her in, and a fur rug was wrapped around her wet galoshes. The door shut noiselessly and the motor slid forward. Marko held a lighter to his cigarette.

"Look here," he said, exhaling slowly. "I've an idea for you to earn some extra money. You have Saturdays, haven't you? Ah, then, you remember how you admired my library. It's sadly in need of cataloguing. Something I've never got around to. You could do it for me."

PHILHARMONIC WOES.
FINANCIAL POSITION MAY CURTAIL PROGRAMME

Practically all amateur theatrical organisations are beset with difficulties, chief of which is the question of finance.

Judging by a circular issued to members this week, the Hongkong Philharmonic Society is no exception to the rule, and the state of the Society's finances, amongst other questions, has been discussed at three Committee meetings since the new Committee was elected on April 30 this year.

According to the circular the Committee, after a careful survey of all relevant circumstances, has reached the conclusion that it is essential, for the present, to follow a conservative policy, to avoid further deficits and to build up a new Reserve.

The Committee has also decided that for the first half of the new season, the Society should limit itself to a Concert, or Oratorio, or other production involving only a trifling outlay, and unlikely to result in any financial loss.

In this connection, certain concrete proposals are to be submitted to members, and for this purpose, a General Meeting of the whole Society has been convened for Friday next, at 5.30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Hall of St. John's Cathedral, and only members will be admitted.

Costly Theatres.

Among other matters discussed by the Committee at recent meetings, was the question of theatre accommodation for the Society's production. In its notice to members, the Committee states that, until the use of a suitable theatre can be secured on terms greatly below those accepted for the last two productions, it would be very unwise to attempt any large scale costume show.

The new Committee is still, it is stated, endeavouring to raise enough money to settle several outstanding debts incurred in connection with the production of "Pirates of Penzance," which, although one of the most successful productions staged by the Society, was a financial loss.

LATE MR. J. L. KNOPP.

FUNERAL HELD AT CATHOLIC CEMETERY YESTERDAY

The funeral of the late Mr. J. L. Knopp, representative of the Raymond Concrete Pile Driving Co., Ltd. who passed away on Sunday morning at his residence at 49 Peking Road, Kowloon, was held at Happy Valley yesterday. The remains were interred in the Catholic Cemetery, the Rev. Fr. Rossi officiating.

Amongst those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Corver, Mr. C. L. Shank of the Eastern Mercantile and Construction Co., Ltd., Mr. A. Mylo of Messrs. Little, Adams and Wood; Mr. Van Bynen, Mr. S. A. Semenuck, and Mrs. J. Grace Ozorio.

Wreaths were sent by the children, Vincent and Vera; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Corver, Mr. and Mrs. J. Grace Ozorio and Miss Helene Ozorio; Mr. S. A. Semenuck, Mr. C. L. Shank, Mr. Colbourn Little, The Eastern Mercantile and Construction Co., the Raymond Concrete Pile Driving Co., Ltd., Messrs. Little, Adams and Wood; Messrs. Leigh and Orange, The Netherlands Harbour Works Co., and Messrs. McDonald and Towne, Ltd.

SERIES OF LECTURES.

DR. E. L. ALLEN TO SPEAK AT HOP YAT CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. E. L. Allen, M.A., Pitt. D., Minister of the Kowloon Union Church, will give a series of five lectures on "The Social Principles of Jesus" at the Hop Yat Church, Bonham Road.

The series will start on Thursday evening, May 31, at 8 p.m. It is hoped that the public, especially the young people will take advantage of and attend Dr. Allen's scholarly interpretations of the following subjects: 1.—An Adventure for Christ; 2.—The Christian and Politics; 3.—The Christian and Money; 4.—Life's Highest Law.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

With an impressive array of talent in an all-star cast, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's early contribution to the 1934 motion picture year—this "Slide of Heaven"—opens to-morrow at the Alhambra. The picture, laid in a modern setting, tells the story of a typical family with all their troubles, tragedies, romances and disappointments, deftly woven into a picture that begins to end. The film, directed by William K. Howard, is a fast-moving vehicle in which every member of the family experiences his and her greatest crisis in life almost simultaneously. The family plays the younger son, Seth, who believes that life hangs on a frayed pin. Una Merkel serves as this typical family as the housemaid, "Birdie," and C. Henry Gordon plays his villainy aside long enough to give an excellent performance as the boss who threatens Barrymore with imprisonment for a forty thousand dollar embezzlement. The production abounds with unusual settings—yet all within the realm of everyday scenes that play a dominant part in the average Everyman's life.

"Ever Since Eve"
Exchanging his saddle and spurs for a top hat and a wing collar, George O'Brien will appear as a man-about-town in his latest Fox Film, "Ever Since Eve," which makes its appearance at the Kings Theatre on Wednesday. O'Brien, who has long been associated with Westerns, is said to show an amazing versatility in this new type of role. The story concerns a young man who is the foster son of two rough and rich goldminers. All three meet at a dinner party. The young man, who is a confirmed woman-hater and is loath to send the young man East for fear he will be trapped by some scheming woman. It is finally decided that one of the partners accompany him on the trip. But the inevitable happens, and the young man falls for a debutante who finally marries him for his money. He learns of his mistake, but does not stop to realize that his wife has also fallen in love with him. He returns home with his bride, and tries to impress his foster parents with his assumed happiness. The young man soon wins the three partners over to his side, and they all think of a plan to make the young man realize that his wife is really in love with him. The successful culmination of the plan is said to bring the film to an unusually hilarious conclusion. Mary Brian has the feminine lead opposite George O'Brien. The other members of the cast are Herbert Mundin, who was last seen in "Orient Express", and who incidentally has his fattest role to date; Betty Byrnes, who makes her return to the screen after a long absence; Roger Imhoff, Russell Simpson and George Meeker. George Marshall directed from the screen play by Henry Johnson and Stuart Anthony.

"Only Yesterday"
This is a year when the customer gets more star names for the price of admission than ever before. Ever since the Alhambra, the famous Hollywood moving picture studios have centred more and more "name" talent in casts, but Carl Laemmle, Jr., has gone the limit. The cast of "Only Yesterday," now showing at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres, contains ninety-three names of players known the world over. There never was a picture with such a cast. There probably never will be another one. John M. Stahl was given carte blanche to secure just the proper player for every role whether it was important or unimportant. And Stahl is a stickler for the right actor in the right role. In addition to the 93 name parts, Universal used 4,500 extras in "Only Yesterday" to make this picture the actors' and extras' delight. It has kept many a big bad wolf from the Hollywood actors' door. In the final scene alone, eighteen well known screen players were used. Those who appeared in their supporting parts, were Edmund Breese, Len Bari, Creighton Hale, Natalie Kingston, King Baggot, William Davidson, Lloyd Whitlock, Virginia Howell, Jason Richards, Robert Bolder, Lynn Cowan, Mabel Turner, George Irving, Eddie Kane, George Hackathorne, James Donlan, Otto Hoffman and Harvey Clark, bringing the total cast to 93 speaking parts. "Only Yesterday," presented as Universal's most ambitious picture of the season, features Margaret Sullivan, John Hele, Edna May Oliver, Billie Burke and Reginald Denny in leading roles. Other important parts are played by Jimmy Butler, George Meeker, June Clyde, Barry Norton, Maita McHugh, Vivien Oakland, Bert Roach, Onslow Stevens and Natalie Moorhead.

"George White's Scandals"
At the King's Theatre to-day, Fox film will have the distinction of presenting the first and only motion picture edition of the famous George White's "Scandals." The entire production was conceived, and staged by George White himself. The film is reported to be as elaborate and as spectacular as any of White's previous successes on the Broadway stage. With all the advantages offered by recent developments in talking pictures, White was able to produce a film that he says he could not possibly contemplate duplicating on the stage. The song writers, Jack Yellen, Irving Caesar, and Ray Henderson, all hit composers, have created ten melodic songs for this production. The dazzling dances in the eight revue numbers were directed by George White, past master at creating ultra-modern routines. Besides the song hits and revues, the film is enriched with fifteen comedy blackouts that give promise of being the high points of the production. Interspersed with the song numbers, revues and blackouts is a romantic story involving the principals of the show. At one time, the romance threatens to ruin the show, but the clear thinking of the producer, who is George White himself, saves the show and brings happiness to a pair of lovers. The cast with which White has surrounded himself is large, and is studied with an array of screen, stage and radio personalities. Among the most prominent are Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, Alice Faye, Adrienne Ames, Cliff Edwards and Gregory Ratoff.

"Hold Me Tight"
James Dunn and Sally Eilers in "Hold Me Tight" will be the attraction at the Oriental Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday. James Dunn and Sally Eilers are typifying the romance of American youth—two youngsters yearning for happiness in a world that represses making youths, good at heart, think they're "bad girls" and "bad boys" but never quite spilling their inherent fire because they possess the courage to batter down all obstacles. It's a true, sincere, human situation. Jimmy Dunn and Sally Eilers play the parts that many of you have lived in real life. They're two youngsters in love, working in the same store, waiting for the right that will let them get married, and quarrelling as to whether they should wait. Comedy, suspense and drama are the highlights of this love romance. Fun coming from Frank McHugh with the salotto laugh you'll remember from "One Way Passage," heart interest from June Clyde, Frank's patient forbearing wife who keeps him in cigarettes while he looks for a job; drama as Kenneth Thomson plots to rob the store and "smoke" Sally at the same time.

The following forthcoming weddings are announced: Mr. Shew Slutsk, merchant, of 13, Man Chung Fong, Happy Valley, and Miss Pank Wai-fan, of 10, Man Chung Fong, Happy Valley; Mr. Chan Kung-yee, school-master, of 161, Kwelin Street, Shamshuipo, and Miss Lo Lin-bo, of 134, Lai Chi-ko Road, Shamshuipo.

THE TASK BEFORE GENEVA

To-day there opens in Geneva what can certainly be described as the most fateful session of the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference ever held. The result of its deliberations will have a profound effect on the peace of the world. Unhappily, the Conference meets under the shadow cast by the widespread fear that no major agreement on the limitation of arms is likely. Whether contemplation of the grave consequences of possible failure will have a sobering effect on the various delegates, causing them at the eleventh hour to explore every possible avenue in order to avert such a catastrophe, will soon be seen. Meanwhile, it is to be hoped that, if nothing else is achieved, some definite step will be taken along the lines of the Russian plan for collaboration in the definition of an aggressor, with sanctions against the guilty party. The Russian attitude on this point has always been marked by a keen perception of the danger arising from the fact that there is at present no universally acknowledged definition of aggression. This is well demonstrated by the reservations attached to the Kellogg Pact. In effect, these reservations amount to a claim by certain States for freedom of action, in certain cases and in certain parts of the world, Pact or no Pact. The mischief is, in this connection, that given circumstances may be used as justification for aggression. A prime necessity, therefore, is the defining of war and aggression by the drawing of definite distinctions between aggression and defence. Russia has put forward very specific submissions on these points and has, in fact, already embodied them in certain non-aggression pacts. In the course of an all-embracing instrument, an aggressor is defined by the Russian plan as the first country in an international conflict which declares war, invades the territory of another without a declaration of war, bombards another's territory, attacks the naval or air forces of another State, or establishes a naval blockade of the coast or ports of another country. What is more, it is laid down that no considerations whatever of a political or economic nature, including the desire to exploit natural riches or to obtain advantages or privileges on the territory of another State, or no references to capital investments or other special interests in a given State, shall be accepted as justification of aggression as defined above. Here, then, is a clear-cut definition which, if adopted and sin-

NOTES OF THE DAY

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY

Signs of increasing American interest in the Disarmament Conference are unmistakable. Mr. Norman Davis is expected to make an important statement which, if it does not commit the United States further, will at least bring her back to the point from which she withdrew twelve months ago. In addition, close Anglo-American co-operation in the handling of the conversations preliminary to next year's naval conference is confidently predicted. There is still sound hope for the immediate future if the reorientation of America's foreign policy is an earnest of real appreciation of the gravity of events in the international field and of President Roosevelt's readiness to contribute liberally towards a solution.

ANGLO-AMERICAN UNITY

And the prospects are good. For the effect of Japan's recent hegemony pronouncement has been to bring Great Britain and the United States considerably closer in their Far Eastern policies. Anglo-American unity in the Far East was a principal factor in frustrating effective international action to prevent the dismemberment of Manchuria, and Anglo-American unity in the Far East has continued to complicate and embarrass relations between the two halves of the English-speaking world. Unqualified, unquestioned and unchallenged Japanese hegemony over China is as grave as any other concern to Great Britain than it is to the United States. Neither country will willingly accept the supervision of its political and commercial relations with China by the Japanese Foreign Office. Neither country wishes to supervise Japan's relations with China. Both seek to maintain the present balance in the Far East through a collective peace supervised by the collective application of the Nine Power Pacific Treaty guaranteeing, as it does, the political, territorial and administrative sovereignty of China.

CRITICAL MOMENT

Unity in the Far East between Great Britain and the United States seems essential to the attainment of such a peace, and if a new Anglo-American unity is in the making, as it appears, Japan will have helped to bring these two countries together at a critical and profitable moment for themselves and for the entire world. In points of execution, the foreign policy of the present Administration differs appreciably from its predecessor. Unlike Mr. Stimson, Mr. Cordell Hull has not allowed the United States to become the spearhead of protest against the latest chapter in Japan's Asiatic conquest. Washington will, like London, await developments. The President supports a non-recognition doctrine, enunciated by President Hoover and Mr. Stimson, but is not prepared to press it beyond what the American Government can enforce, without the backing of the rest of the world.

ROOSEVELT LIMITATIONS

The tendency of the Roosevelt Government to keep its international ideas well within its capacity to execute them and within what it believes is the willingness of the American people to support them also can hardly fail to effect the search to find disarmament in Europe. The Administration is less expansive about consultative commitments than its predecessor, and the United States has, till now, refrained from playing any active role in a world-wide system for the collective enforcement of peace. In the meantime difficult and explosive problems remain unhealed in Europe. They contain the seeds of certain conflict if left to the cultivation of selfishness and stupidity. In their political aspects it is believed that Mr. Norman Davis will explain a new form of neutrality to be achieved through an embargo which would abandon trade with all belligerents. It is the conviction of many in Washington that such a policy, particularly if supported by parallel action by Great Britain, would discourage war by withdrawing essential financial and commercial support, or circumscribe its ring of destruction. Until collective action to restrain an aggressor becomes a possibility, Washington offers this alternative. American reaction to the Litvinoff scheme should be interesting.

cerely respected, would be of the utmost value in the preservation of peace. Coupled with an undertaking of joint action against an aggressor, as defined, it should immensely reduce the danger of war and soon put a stop to aggressive action once begun.

FRANCE'S WAITING GAME IN CHINA

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

PEIPING, April 10.—France, with the world's greatest colonial empire next to Great Britain's, has her eyes on a slice of China as big as the 13 original American colonies.

Impetuously, the French are watching every move made on the Asiatic chessboard by Japan, the United States, Britain, Russia, and even China, in Central Asia and elsewhere, so that no possible turn of the delicately-poised balance will catch her napping.

If China blows up, or is torn asunder by the over-increasing pressure from without, France will be on hand for her share of the spoils.

Her sphere of influence or zone of special interest is the territory of Yunnan and Kwangsi, on French Indo-China's northern frontier, the Luchow peninsula and the island of Hainan at the peninsula's point.

IN LINE FOR GREAT POWER.

Given the island and the peninsula, the Gulf of Tonkin, which she already dominates, would be as French as Long Island Sound is American.

And France strategically would occupy a position in the Far East second to none save Japan.

Yunnan is the second largest of the 18 provinces of China proper. In area it is almost 160,000 square miles. Kwangsi is nearly as large.

With Hainan and the neighbouring peninsula—on which France controls the leased territory Kwangchow-wan—the total area amounts to approximately 360,000 square miles.

FRANCE BIDES HER TIME.

France is not at all excited over Japan's encroachments in the north. She appears but mildly interested in what the British are doing in the "God Land" of Tibet, or the manoeuvres of the other powers in the hell-hole of Chinese Turkestan.

If there is to be a new scramble for "concessions" at the expense of China, France has her bit already staked out.

There is a tacit understanding between the French rooster and the British lion in southern and western China. Burma, bordering Yunnan on the west, was once part of China. Now it is British.

Just as Indo-China is French. But some time ago, when the lion proposed to extend his railroad—which runs across Burma, via Mandalay, to the Yunnan border—on into China to connect with the head of navigation on the Yangtze river, the rooster crowed a warning. The project was dropped.

JEALOUSLY BARS PARTITION.

This does not mean, of course, that China is already parcelled out. Far from it. International rivalry over which great power would get what piece of China, and why, still remains China's chief salvation.

Except Japan, no other nation, for the moment, is willing to risk war. Mostly they are just watching and waiting.

France controls Yunnan by controlling the gateway. The one practicable portal is via Haiphong, French Indo-China port, on the Gulf of Tonkin, thence by railroad to Yunnan-fu, the provincial capital.

The alternative routes are by camel caravan over mountain trails. Instead of three days, they require from four to eight weeks.

Here is at least one reason why France objected to a British railway into Yunnan from Mandalay and the Indian ocean. Economically and militarily, she controls the province as matters stand.

No arms or munitions can get in save by France's leave, and in all matters of ordinary trade she has the inside track on the feast of the world.

U.S. PLANE SALE HITS SNAG.

Some time ago the war lord of Yunnan wanted to buy some airplanes. An enterprising American sold him four. When these reached Haiphong, the French refused to let them in.

They classed them as war supplies, which, rightly enough, are barred.

After considerable difficulty and loss of time, during which Washington and Paris exchanged a series of cables, the American finally got his planes through.

And the war lord was very pleased with them. But he had learned his lesson. His next order for planes was placed in France.

Foreigners complain that their shipments take weeks or months to reach their destination in Yunnan, and they suffer considerable loss from breakage.

On the other hand, they observe, French shipments somehow enjoy much better luck, arriving in a few days in good condition.

FREIGHT RATES JUGGLED.

Freight rates, too, they say, seem subject to sudden change on the French railway. True or not, it is remarked that when some particularly close bidding is going on, the rates seem to drop when French materials are due to go up into Yunnan, then bound back again in time to catch competitors.

One always hears such stories when conditions are what they are at Haiphong. But the fact remains that France gets more business than all the other nations combined, whereas, in the rest of China, she stands close to the bottom of the list.

Yunnan is very mountainous and extremely poor. But she raises the best opium in China, which is always in great demand.

The drug is by far her principal export. On the other hand, she imports rice. Her best land is turned over to the poppy.

RING CLOSES ON CHINA.

Kwangsi, the province east of Yunnan, has not yet felt France's influence to any great extent. France has no railway there. She does have a line from Hanoi, however, as far as the Kwangsi border, and a concession for a railroad connecting the head of the Gulf of Tonkin with Yunnan-fu.

So, beginning with Korea and Manchuria and continuing in a stupendous semi-circle through Mongolia, Sinkiang, Tibet, Yunnan, and Kwangsi, the great powers are pressing in on China, closer and closer.

Paralyzed by her own impotence, and without much hope of help from tottering peace machinery, her horizon is dark indeed.

The Very Idea!

OURSELVES & OTHERS

By George

IN response to the numerous telephone enquiries as to our absence from the dancing competition held last week, we have to thank our friends for their interest and to remind them that at this stage in the month we cannot afford to enter any competition where the result is arrived at by public vote.

Had we been able to bring our shroff friends and other parasites along we might have been induced to shake a hoof with the best of them, despite the unattractiveness of the prizes.

What we should have liked to have seen as prizes were a free chit account for a month at the Hongkong Hotel for the men and free access to the ice cream at the Gloucester for the ladies. As a second prize gratis training for the profession of glass blowing or instruction in the rudiments of dancing.

SLEEP, UNTRUBLED BREAST.

Dear Jurymen (Alexandra Building)—I can understand you falling to sleep during the hearing of a long case but there are several expedients you should try before you let snoring interfere with your snooze. You might arrange with the jurymen next to you to take turns in sleeping so that you can each hear part of the case and fix things up afterwards. You might also wait for the Assistant Attorney General's summing up, when you may snore to your heart's content. It is a pity that the benches are so uncomfortable but I am afraid it is the old story of the public's comfort considered last.

FAT HENRIETTA.

Dear Henrietta, (Kowloon Tong).—I certainly feel that you should take some exercise if you really have put on seven pounds in seven days. As you say stamp collecting reduces the figure but seems to touch your pocket money more than anything else, I should advise you to take up billiards or snooker while you are still able to bend over a table. I can understand your not being able to touch your toes but have you tried with a walking stick or something like that? Anyway you can always exercise by touching the ceiling which is just as good and easier in your case.

LESSON IN JOURNALISM.

The layman usually believes that a sub-editor is "next to the editor."

Misguided pupils who wish to become sub-editors should realise that this is so far from the truth (like all popular beliefs) that editors are often unaware of the names belonging to the "spate" or "clutch" of almost hairless men who sit closely packed round the sub-editor's "spike," or throwing away, "scoops."

It has been said that sub-editors are the lowest form of life with the exception of the one-eyed newt, though this is possibly an exaggeration. They sleep in the daytime, herd together for protection and live mainly on cold tea and stifle sandwiches thrown to them by office boys at feeding time.

Their duties are to write headlines and put sparkle and "human touches" into the news. This is achieved by using phrases like "Dance Fashion," "Miss 1934," "Eve," "The Modern Girl," "The Kid," "Tiny Tots," "Clerk of the Weather," "Happy Holiday Crowds," "Suprise Move," "Bombshell," and "Women up in Arms."

They are mammals and their chief enemies are reporters.

The reporter though to the outside appearance a bright and normal lad is often imbued with the same germ from which the sub-editor springs, oozes, or crawls so that much which could be said of him is reserved for further cogitation.

On the whole reporters are the best of the bunch, being nice, clean, upstanding lads with a fine distaste for drink, swearing, and work.

Most of them are following father's footsteps though their flat feet are derived from waiting on taipans' offices, trending on taipans' toes accidentally, and fallen arches due to frustrated ambition.

"Would you gentlemen care to join us in a little card game?"

AMERICA TURNING TO SOCIALISM?

COUNT KEYSERLING'S OPINIONS

AN EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

(Special to "Telegraph")

Darmstadt, May 29. The United States is to-day a socialist at heart than any other country in the world, with the exception of Russia. Its citizens, while they profess individualism, are infinitely more classless in their real beliefs than any European who officially professes Socialism.

These opinions were expressed by Count Hermann Keyserling, the noted philosopher and writer, in an exclusive interview with the "Telegraph".

Asked whether, in view of this attitude, he felt that President Roosevelt's achievements in social and economic fields were essentially different in method from what Lenin, Stalin, Mussolini, and Hitler had achieved, Count Keyserling responded with an emphatic affirmative.

LITTLE COERCION.

"In a way," he said, "I admire President Roosevelt almost more than I admire any Old World Statesman. No country was less prepared to submit to a general governmental plan than America. Nevertheless, owing to the strong social instincts of the Americans, (which I have tried to describe in 'America Set Free') President Roosevelt has succeeded without much coercion in achieving the results which other leaders have achieved with dictatorial means."

"The fact is," he said, "that very few people realize how profound and radical the present world's crisis is."

"France still believes that it can be solved by starting from premises of the 18th century. Russia believes in a salvation by Marxist principles. England believes in the possibility of maintaining Democracy in the ancient sense, and so would America had it not passed through an unheard-of economic crisis."

NEW TYPE MAN.

"The world has no further use for pre-World War spirits. A tremendous change is taking place on the whole of our planet. A new type of man is emerging and irresistibly coming to predominance. This result has already been achieved in Russia, Turkey, Italy, and Germany."

"But something of the same kind is inevitably going to happen everywhere—even in the United States. And this explains the misunderstanding which identifies Mr. Roosevelt's plans with Fascism. There certainly is a likeness between all reformatory movements of the day, because the all-important problem is to re-shape the social order in such a way that each and all may live a life worth living. But the methods by which the same aim may be reached are totally different."

NO ANTAGONISM.

"There is no such thing as an antagonism in principle between egoism and altruism and, accordingly, between individualism and socialism."

"There is, however, a decisive difference in the make-up of peoples in which the social and the individualistic tendencies predominate. In every human being, in fact, there are primary individual and equally primary social tendencies. It all depends upon the ratio between the two. The fact is that, within America, the social tendencies really predominate, whereas in the case of the Europeans 'they do not'."

CORRESPONDENCE

A Query.

To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—The Government returns, just made public, show that there has been an increase of "Fees of Court, etc." by no less than $128,750.

Will the Colonial Treasurer please give equal publicity to the proportion of this sum representing revenue collected through the Courts from motorists and dog-owners for petty infringements of petty regulations?

NOT A CLASS FOR TERMINOLOGY

WORD DEFINITIONS AT MAGISTRACY

DOG OFFENCES

The definition of the word "allow" was raised by Mr. A. G. Cooke, of No. 38 Mody Road, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when he was summoned before Mr. Wynne-Jones for allowing his dog out in a public street without a muzzle on May 9.

Defendant did not think he could be said to have allowed the dog to be out in the street because he was not in the Colony at the time.

His Worship: I'll show you the Ordinance. You read it and see if you are satisfied that you are wrong.

After reading the Ordinance, defendant agreed the law said he was "deemed" to have committed an offence. He submitted that the word "deemed" meant adjudged.

His Worship: Legally, the word "deemed" means "shall be considered." Do you see now that you are wrong?

Defendant: Legally, yes.

His Worship: This is a Court of law, not a class for terminology. A fine of $8 was imposed.

CASE DISMISSED.

"I think if somebody takes the trouble to ring up the Police station as in this case, steps should be taken right away," commented Mr. Wynne-Jones, when Pedro Nolasco Sequiera, of No. 12 Grandville Road, was summoned for allowing his dog out in the street without a muzzle on May 9.

An Indian constable stated that he saw defendant's dog in Grandville Road without a muzzle at 10.30 a.m. The dog went into the house and he rang the bell of No. 12, but was told by the defendant to get out.

Defendant admitted that the dog was in the street but denied that it had no muzzle. He said that after the constable had rung the doorbell, the dog was still in the street, with a muzzle. When the constable wanted his name and address, he could not understand it. He told the constable to wait outside whilst he telephoned to the Police station. He did so, and the officer in the charge room told him that if his dog was in the street with a muzzle, to send the constable away. When he came down the constable was gone.

Mrs. Beatrice Sequiera, who was in the house at the time on a visit to defendant's wife, corroborated defendant's story that the dog had a muzzle when it was in the street.

"I cannot understand it. I don't know why the constable should have told such a story. I have to accept the story of the defendant and Mrs. Sequiera. The case is dismissed."

In another case, W. Buchner was fined $8 for allowing his dog in the street without a muzzle. Defendant said his house could tell him it was out for only a minute.

His Worship: House could tell wonderful stories on these occasions. I am afraid house could is not always to be trusted.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

ANGER IS ONE OF THE SINEWS OF THE SOUL.—Fidler.

Mak Yau, charged before Mr. Macfadyen, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with hawking without a licence, admitted 20 previous convictions, and was fined $10, or 14 days' imprisonment. Inspector James said that defendant was not yet 25 years of age.

Prior to the members of the Australian goodwill mission leaving by the Kato Maru on Saturday for Australia, Madame Letitia Gordon (President of the Empire and Australia Music Link) presented Mrs. J. Latham on behalf of the Hongkong branch with a beautiful shell-pink fan of unique workmanship. Mrs. Latham warmly thanked Madame Gordon and the Hongkong "Link" for their thoughtful gift. The Hon. Mr. Latham also expressed great appreciation of the work of the Music Link. On the fan was a painted blue bird, for luck and happiness.

ARC-EN-CIEL ACROSS

FROM SENEGAL IN 14 HOURS

St. Louis, May 28.

The flight across the South Atlantic of the French air "ace", M. Jean Marmoz, flying the crack plane, Arc-en-Ciel, was successfully completed to-day.

The Arc-en-Ciel took off from Senegal at 3 a.m. G.M.T., and arrived at Port Natal, Brazil, at 7 p.m. G.M.T., having covered the distance of approximately 1,800 miles in 14 hours.

This is the first attempt by the French, with official backing, to make a commercial air link between France and South America.

The conditions insisted upon by the French Government are that the Arc-en-Ciel must make three double journeys before the service will be recognised by Air France.

The Arc-en-Ciel is one of the biggest and most modern of French commercial aeroplanes, being one of the fastest constructed in France. She was to-day endeavouring to beat the Graf Zeppelin into Brazil.

FRENCH CRUISER HERE

SERIES OF OFFICIAL CALLS

The French cruiser Primauguet, with the C-in-C, the French Fleet in the Far East, Rear Admiral Richard, on board arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning.

As she steamed down the harbour she fired a Royal Salute of 21 guns which was replied to from Blackhead Point. This was followed by a salute of 13 guns to the Commodore's broad pennant, to which H.M.S. Tamar replied.

During the morning, calls were exchanged. Commodore Frank Elliot paid an official call on board the Primauguet at 10 a.m. and was received with a salute of nine guns. At 10.25 a.m. the French C-in-C, landed at Queen's Pier and made calls on H. E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, and H. E. the G.O.C., Major General O. C. Borrell. The calls were returned later on board the French vessel.

Two cases each of small-pox, diphtheria and typhoid, and one case of relapsing fever (imported) were reported to the local health authorities during the week-end.

Four months' hard labour was the sentence imposed by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on Chan Chi-ping, charged with the theft of a radiator cap from a car belonging to Mr. G. L. Buchanan, chief warden of the Victoria Gaol. The car was parked in Hospital Road.

The Commissioner and members of St. John Ambulance Brigade wish to thank the artists for the success of the concert held in aid of the British Empire Cancer Research Campaign on Saturday last, particularly Mr. Li Chor-chi for organising, and Mr. Charleton and Jackson, for stage management, etc.; Tang Fook, for loan of two pianos; Hongkong Electric Co. for loan of lamp; Hongkong and Shanghai Hotel, for spot light and operator; Messrs. Gaudy, Price, for drinks.

SENTRY CAUGHT SLEEPING

LINCOLNS' MAN CHARGED

ACCUSES N.C.O. OF GRUDGE

Private Arthur Thompson, "C" Company, Lincolnshire Regiment, was charged before a Court-Martial at Shamshui Barracks this morning, with leaving his post before being relieved, when posted as sentry at the Old Magazine, Hongkong, on May 20, and with being found asleep on duty.

The Court comprised Major Austin (Punjabia) as President, Capt. Marshall (Lincoln) and Lieut. Beer (East Lancashire). The prosecuting officer was Capt. Young, and the prisoner's friend was Second Lieut. O'Connor. Lance-Corporal L. Thompson, who posted accused to sentry duty from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m., read over the orders and the accused asked no questions. At 12.35 a.m., witness found him asleep with his boots off, minus his rifle.

Capt. Young said accused's defence was of the usual type in cases of this nature, that the N.C.O. had a grudge against him. The N.C.O. was the sole witness and he saw no reason why his testimony should be disbelieved.

Lieut. O'Connor, defending, said it was alleged that accused had taken off his boots and placed his equipment beside him. This was very unlikely if he wanted to go to sleep.

"The two men are together in the same company and are in constant contact. There is no reason to suppose that the accused's story is not true," he concluded.

Accused was found guilty and the finding of the Court will be promulgated in due course.

Accused has been in the army for three years and is 21 years of age. He had been previously convicted for sleeping on duty.

Lieut. O'Connor asked the Court not to take the previous conviction against the man too much. He pointed out that the putting away of a rifle and taking boots off was the work of a very inexperienced man.

PRACTISING AS A SOLICITOR

PROSECUTION FALLS TO GROUND

A summons against Wong Kuei-chung for having at 6 Des Vaux Road, Central, and or 119 Des Vaux Road, Central, on or about April 25, directly or indirectly practised or acted as a solicitor without having been admitted or enrolled, was withdrawn by the prosecution before Mr. Macfadyen, at the Central Magistracy this afternoon.

The grounds for the withdrawal was that there is no law at present in Hongkong making it possible to proceed with the summons, as it was difficult to prove the whole alleged offence, which was practising or acting as a solicitor.

Mr. A. el Arculli appeared for the accused, while Mr. D. L. Strellett prosecuted on behalf of the Incorporated Law Society of Hongkong.

NEPALESE GIFTS FOR KING SPECIAL MISSION IN LONDON

London, May 28. A formal welcome was extended to the mission from the Kingdom of Nepal which arrived in London this afternoon for the purpose of presenting a new Nepalese honour to the King and establishing a permanent Nepalese Legation in London.

The mission is headed by a special envoy, the eldest son of the Prime Minister of Nepal. For a fortnight, members of the mission will be the guests of His Majesty's Government, and when the official visit ends the special envoy will present letters of credence on his appointment as first Nepalese Minister to London. The envoy brings some rare gifts from Nepal for presentation to the King on the occasion of his birthday.—British Wireless.

MRS. KAYLL'S VOLLEYS

AGAINST K.C.C.

COLONY'S NEXT LADY CHAMPION IN THE MAKING

U.S.R.C. A CINCH FOR THE MIXED
DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

(By "Veritas").

The Mixed Double tennis league championship was virtually decided yesterday when the United Services Recreation Club visited the K.C.C., and won by six sets to three.

It is, perhaps, a little unfortunate, that such a claim can be made after the second match of the season, but after yesterday's showing by the United Services, and the obvious decline of the reigning champions, one finds it difficult to imagine any other outcome.

Yesterday's tennis at the K.C.C. was highly attractive and entertaining, with the ladies playing an unusually important part. All eyes were centred on Mrs. Kayll, who, although often impetuous, and guilty of numbers of errors, showed enough skill to satisfy one that the U.S.R.C. possess the 1934 lady champion of the Colony.

BETTER AT SINGLES?

Mrs. Kayll's game is considerably more developed than most of her contemporaries in Hongkong, but I should imagine her to be a better singles exponent, than doubles. Her confident covering of the Court betrays a desire to be "in at the kill", to adopt a hunting expression, and yesterday she figured in as many finishes of the rallies as Goldman, her partner.

Mrs. Kayll was not so powerful in forehand drive as one would have expected. Her anxiety to keep the ball in the court found her adopting heavy top-spin strokes which tended to suffer in length. But on the backhand she was sound, and belied early impressions that the strokes were purely defensive, by obtaining winning points therefrom.

AT THE NET.

But Mrs. Kayll was happiest at the net; not, perhaps, in the success of her shots, but in the buoyant and confident manner in which she tackled them. Her volley above the height of the net is worth noting. She definitely hits the ball, full faced, with a lot of wrist work. A powerful stroke this, and a difficult shot to counter. Mrs. Kayll was not always timing it correctly through the three sets yesterday, but when she did—! Overhead there was the same decisive stroke; no chop; a full blooded hit made from anywhere between the net and three feet from the baseline. It was all attacking tennis, and because of this left me, a stranger to Mrs. Kayll's game, wondering. There were very few signs of a defensive game behind the impetuous volleys and kills, and her rushes to the net on sometimes very bad length balls. But it was an entertaining demonstration of care-free tennis, and both Mrs. Kayll and Goldman will have to play very badly to lose a set in league tennis this year.

BELOW FORM.

It was a pity that Mrs. Wilson was feeling unwell and was therefore below form. Nevertheless her match with Teddy Fincher against Mrs. Kayll and Goldman was worth seeing.

The K.C.C. pair had one glorious opportunity of winning the set, but threw it away. After trailing at the first and third games, Mrs. Wilson and Fincher broke through Mrs. Kayll's service to lead 3-2. Fincher's service followed, but a bad error by Mrs. Wilson at the net, and clever volleying by Mrs. Kayll saw the advantage lost. The K.C.C. pair should have gone (Continued on Page 9.)

NEW SWIMMER

JACK MEDICA SHOWS GREAT PROMISE

Chicago, Ill., May 26. Because he has broken six world swimming records in the last year, 19-year old Jack Medica is expected to carry much of this country's hopes at the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

Amateur athletic authorities feel that Japan is making a strong bid for swimming titles at Berlin, and they hope for a few more like Medica to meet Nipponese.

From an alternative on the United States Olympic team two years ago, Medica has developed into the greatest swimmer in this country from 220 yards to one mile.

During the four nights of the Women's National Indoor Swimming Championships here recently, Medica broke nine records.

Norman Ross, former Olympic champion, who once held 72 records, believes Medica has a chance to annex every record on the books from 220 yards to one mile.

STILL TO REACH PEAK.

"Medica's performance in breaking nine records in four nights is as great as anything I have ever seen in swimming," commented Ross. "He's not far from being the world's greatest swimmer, and he hasn't reached his peak yet."

"Like all great swimmers of the past, he has a style that the alleged experts term unorthodox. That's what they said about me and Johnny Weissmuller, but as

HAT-TRICK AGAINST AUSTRALIANS

H. J. ENTHOVEN'S GREAT FEAT

BRADMAN BATS GRIMMETT BOWLS

London, May 28. The Australians and Middlesex figured in some bright cricket at Lord's to-day, when the tourists beat the county team by ten wickets.

Some characteristically big hitting by Bradman was succeeded by a "hat-trick" by H. J. Enthoven, a Cambridge Blue for Middlesex, and some fine bowling by Grimmett, who twice took wickets with consecutive deliveries.

The Australian carried their overnight score of 135 for 2, to 345 before the last wicket fell. Bradman was very aggressive, and added a further 60 runs to the three figure mark which he reached before the close on Saturday. His best hits were a six and a five together with 27 fours.

Alec Kippax also batted confidently for his 56.

NEW BOWLER.

But chief honours of the day fell to H. J. Enthoven, who, in his first over after lunch, dismissed Ebeling, Grimmett and Wall with consecutive balls. He finally returned figures of 4 for 50, while Smith, a new member of the attack, took 4 for 99.

Although only 37 runs in arrears, Middlesex made a sorry showing in their second knock, and with Grimmett at his best, were sent back for 114.

The slow bowler twice narrowly missed the "hat-trick", and in all captured five wickets for 27 runs. Set to score 28 to win, the Australians hit off the runs without loss, putting on 29 before stumps were drawn.—Reuter.

soon as he had broken all the records on the book they recognized our individual styles as orthodox. The same thing will happen as soon as Medica breaks a few more records."

Ross, who is the only swimmer to win both the 400 and 1,500-meter races in the Olympic games, predicts that Medica will duplicate his performance in the 1936 games at Berlin.

HELENE MADISON COULD BEAT HIM.

Medica is 19, weighs 135 pounds and is the third of three great swimmers to come from the Pacific Northwest. Ross was the first, then came Helene Madison, and now Medica. He started swimming in 1931 and practised in the same pool with Helene Madison.

"For six months Helene could beat me," he recalled, "but pretty soon I got so I could take her at every distance. Training with her helped me a lot."

Ray Daughters, who developed Helene Madison, is Medica's coach. Like Ross, he thinks that Medica will continue to improve until he will be unbeatable by the 1936 Olympics.

SENSATION IN FRENCH CHAMPIONSHIP

Paris, May 28.

Overseas invaders continued to dominate the scene in to-day's continuation of the French tennis championships at Auteuil, and big crowds saw the most sensational result of the meeting to date, when Fred Perry and George Hughes, the British Davis Cup pair, and holders of the title, fell victims to R. Menzel and L. Hecht, the Czechoslovakians in the third round of the men's doubles.

Menzel and Hecht won in three straight sets with scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-2, and at no stage of the game did they appear in danger of defeat.

This is the worst beating Perry and Hughes as a combination have sustained for a considerable time. Easily the most successful combination in England, their successes in previous Davis Cup encounters, the French championship last year and the Australian championship only a few months ago, lent conviction to the belief that they could hold their own in the international field of tennis quite comfortably.

In the Davis Cup last year, Hughes and Perry won three doubles matches and lost two. Against Czechoslovakia, they met Menzel and F. Marsalek and won in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

SOME RECOMPENSE.

The English team, however, gained some recompense by the success of H. W. Austin and C. E. Hare against the strong German couple, Von Cramm and Denker whom they beat after a gruelling five-set match. The Englishmen were trailing after the first and third sets, but came back very strongly to capture the fourth at the 12th game and the fifth at the tenth game.

The last eight in the women's singles is now complete, and finds England represented by Miss Margaret Scriven (the holder), Miss Nancy Lyle and Miss Kathleen Stammers. Other survivors are Fr. Aussem, Mme. Mathieu, Sign. Valerio, Mlle. Payot and Miss Helen Jacobs.

According to the draw, Miss Scriven will meet Miss Lyle, Fr. Aussem is opposed to Miss Stammers, Mme. Mathieu of France meets Sign. Valerio of Italy, and Mlle. Payot of Switzerland encounters Miss Helen Jacobs of America. Six nations are represented, and England is bound to supply at least one semi-finalist, although it is impossible to have an all-English final. If Miss Stammers beats Fr. Aussem, England will be certain to figure in the final, as Miss Stammers will meet the winner of the Miss Scriven-Miss Lyle tie in the semi-final.

AUSTRALIAN BEATEN.

To-day Miss Stammers accomplished an excellent performance in beating Miss Joan Hartigan, the Australian lady champion by the scores of 6-3, 6-4, while Miss Helen Jacobs had an easy task against Miss Hardwicke, another English competitor, winning 5-0, 6-1.

An Anglo-Polish alliance met with success in the second round of the women's doubles, when Miss Susan Noel and Mlle. Jedzejowska overcame the well-known British pair, Miss Nuthall and Miss Scriven in straight sets.

The scores as cabled by Reuter follow.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Third Round

R. Menzel and L. Hecht (Czechoslovakia) beat F. J. Perry and G. P. Hughes (England) 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

H. W. Austin and C. E. Hare (England) beat Von Cramm and Denker (Germany) 3-6, 12-10, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4.

LADIES' SINGLES.

Third Round

Miss K. Stammers (England) beat Miss J. Hartigan (Australia) 6-3, 6-4.

Miss H. Jacobs (U.S.A.) beat Miss Hardwicke (England) 6-0, 6-1.

LADIES' DOUBLES.

Second Round

Miss Susan Noel (G.B.) and Mlle. Jedzejowska (Poland) beat Miss Nuthall and Miss Scriven (England) 6-3, 6-4.

THE VARSITIES AT CRICKET

(By R. Abbit)

There is little doubt that to the man in the street, especially in England, the County Championship is all in all, save when the Australians are spending a summer in England. But there are a great many people, all of them players or past-players of the game, to whom the great event of the cricket season is the encounter, at Lord's, between Oxford and Cambridge.

Yorkshire may become Champions for the umpteenth time, or a new County may be so hailed for the first time. It is very interesting, but who won at Lord's? There are, I venture to think, a good many people in the Colony who come in this category, but, while perhaps I write more particularly for them, I trust and venture to think, that most local players will find the subject of interest.

For the Varsity is the chief, though not the only, source of English amateur cricket. It may even be that a few of my younger readers may some day go up to Oxford or Cambridge themselves, while some of the Blues, of whom we read, may come here. Last season we had the pleasure of seeing both Mayhew and Hill-Wood here, both of whom had figured in articles, similar to this, which I have published in the past. And some of those I may mention in these forthcoming articles may yet be knocking the cover off the ball in Hongkong.

THE CAPTAIN'S POSITION.

Long before term time the Varsity captains have a pretty good idea of the situation which they will have to deal. They know the number of old Blues that will be in residence, and are well acquainted with the play of the various Seniors who will be available. Many of these will probably have been tried for the Varsity already.

They also have a pretty accurate knowledge of the ability of the various Freshmen coming into residence. Infinitely more now is done for school cricket than was done at the beginning of the century, and there is little chance now of a good Freshman getting no early trial because, coming from a small school, no one knew anything about him until he started making a reputation in College cricket.

All that has been changed, and the School games, arranged after the Summer Term at Lord's and the Oval by the M. C. C. and, I think, the Surrey County Club, give all useful aspirants a chance to show their mettle. Success against the Army, or in the Lord's Schools v. Rest game means an early trial if the player goes to a Varsity. I am told that next year's Varsity captains, if not there in person, have skilled judges of the game watching the new entry for them.

MANY ARE CALLED.

Thus the Captain has a pretty fair advance knowledge of his material. His great difficulty is to select the right men, who have found their form, possess the "Lord's" temperament, and at the same time will build up into a well-balanced team. And it is a most difficult job. So many merit trials, and the season lasts so short, a time. Besides the Varsity match, a bare dozen games only are played as a rule. Moreover, during Term time, the side is cut to bits, because there are sure to be some senior men who are taking Schools or Tripos. The Captain himself is usually in this position, and it does not help. However, this is the task with which he is faced.

To begin with, it is by no means a rule that once a Blue, always a Blue. Every year, each old Blue must play himself into the side, and it is the rule rather than the exception to find one or two old Blues dropping out each season. The only consideration, merit excepted, is perhaps a faint bias towards playing Freshmen in the team, where reasonably possible, so as to provide experienced players, as well as Secretaries and Captains in the future.

FEW ARE CHOSEN.

Out of all the dozens of good cricketers, the Captain can only select ten men besides himself. It is a big job. Therefore, at the beginning of the 1933 season, eight old Blues, Add to these twenty-two from the Freshers' match, and twenty-two from the Seniors. That makes fifty-two players, apart from later discoveries, from which an eleven must be selected. For Oxford, twenty-six men were tried; for Cambridge, twenty. Who would be a Varsity captain? The only bright spot in his lot is that he is an absolute autocrat, and his selection is seldom criticised—in public, anyway.

OXFORD.

In this article, I propose to deal with the prospects of Oxford alone, and will start with the fact that P. G. H. Chalk, (Uppingham & B.N.C.) is captain. He got his Blue as a Freshman in 1931, when Oxford won by eight wickets. He is a useful bat, but at Lord's he has only scored 10 (1931), 7 (1932), and 0 & 10 not out (1933), although this last innings probably saved the match. D. F. Walker, also Uppingham & B.N.C., who got in as a Freshman last year and made 40 & 4 against Cambridge, is Secretary.

The old Blues in residence are D. C. H. Townsend (Winchester &

New College) and R. G. Stainton (Malvern & B.N.C.), who are batsmen, and E. A. Barlow (Shrewsbury & B.N.C.) and R. G. Tindall (Winchester & Trinity), who are stock bowlers. Barlow is a very useful number nine batsman, by the way.

Both Stainton and Tindall are four-year men, though they only got their Blues last year. Barlow played in 1931 and 1932, getting his Blue as a Freshman. Townsend was in the Winchester eleven of 1931, but for some reason or other was not put into the 1932 Freshers' side. However, he made a century in the 1933 Seniors' match, got his Blue and finished top of the Oxford averages with 20-1-734-38.63.

There are also two 1933 Blues in residence, who were dropped in 1933. A. R. Legard (Winchester & Trinity) is a fastish medium bowler, who was dropped at the last minute for Jenkins, (whose brother in Shanghai we all know), a manoeuvre which probably saved the game. Oxford need a fast bowler this year, and except Jackson there seems to be little talent, so I should have thought that Legard stood some chance, but he has Schools on, and I see that the Times does not fancy his chances.

E. N. Evans (Hallebury & Wadham) though he is a pretty left-handed bat on his day, is a fourth year man, and not likely to get back. He is one of the many good cricketers who have never done themselves justice at Oxford.

OXFORD'S RECORD TO DATE.

As the Seniors and Freshers' matches at Oxford were largely spoilt by rain, it is difficult at present to size up the various candidates. First of all, however, I will briefly run through the Oxford-record to date, as reported by Reuter.

As my readers probably know, the scores telegraphed are irritatingly brief, and only a series of figures and five or more wickets are given, except in the case of popular heroes. So there are very many sound performances of which we never hear until the papers come out.

However, we know that so far Oxford have played five matches, of which four have been drawn, and one, against the Australians, lost by an

to 4-2, but they were pulled back to three-all, and from that point the visitors were always on top, although Fincher and Mrs. Wilson did manage to snatch the ninth game in gallant fashion.

Mrs. Kayll was at her best in the closing games of this set. She engaged Fincher in volleying duels and several times came off best by adroit placing.

So far as the home team were concerned the honours of the day clearly went to Miss Griffiths and Bertie Guest. They not only beat Major and Mrs. Withington, and drew with Captain Cannon and Mrs. Lewis-Bryan (whom they ought to have beaten), but they seriously threatened Goldman and Mrs. Kayll.

Against the U.S.R.C. No. 1 pair they led three-love, indulging in a highly successful lobbing campaign from which the visitors were a bit fortunate to emerge with the points. Some deep lobbing by the losers in the latter games just missed their objective, and neither Goldman nor his partner would take risks in playing them, and quite rightly too.

A BIG MISTAKE.

Only against Captain Cannon and Mrs. Lewis-Bryan did they lose their team work. Leading 4-1, it appeared as though they would walk away with the set, but Cannon took command of the net, standing just inside the service courts, and the K.C.C. players made the mistake of banging away at him instead of dropping short drives down the side lines and across court.

Cannon played very fine tennis all through. He saved half a point against both Fincher and Guest and easily had the measure of Ernie Fincher and Mrs. Miller, who again suffered three defeats.

Mrs. Withington's fierce forehand driving played a notable part in the matches in which she played with Major Withington. They took Teddy Fincher and Mrs. Wilson to the full distance, and polished off Ernie Fincher and Mrs. Miller with little difficulty.

It was this balance which chiefly impressed with the U.S.R.C. The ladies can all hold their own, and their baseline strokes are good enough to create easy openings for the men at the net.

MAX BRILKA.

GERMAN BOXER

Arrives in Colony To Secure Fights

An interesting arrival in the Colony yesterday was Max Brilka, a German welterweight boxer, who is anxious to fight anybody in Hongkong between the weights of nine and eleven stones.

Thirty-one years of age, Max Brilka has not been in the game for any great length of time, but since he first entered the ring five years ago, he has had approximately 140 fights and has never been knocked out. He has won a great majority of his bouts and has just arrived from a tour of other cities in the Far East.

The former welterweight champion of Germany was born on a farm near Feldhof, Gippdorf, near the town of Paderborn, in Silesia, Germany on March 16, 1903. He first took to medicine, but gave up the idea of dissections to become a boxer.

Brilka proudly claims Max Schmeling, the former world's champion, as his best pot and also that one of his close relations, Dr. Prohaska, was so renowned and clever that he was at one time presented to German Royalty.

From Germany he travelled to Johannesburg, from there he wandered to Australia, then to Shanghai, Kobe, Tokyo, Yokohama, the Philippines and then to India, from where he has now arrived in Hongkong. In all these places he excelled himself in first class boxing. He has met some well-known exponents and during his tour of the East he fought the American boxer, Gunboat Jack, Battling Guillermo and others.

Brilka is now staying at the European Y.M.C.A. in Kowloon and is keen on getting in touch with local aspirants.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET FIRM

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was firm yesterday. The market was done 810,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—Stocks, club issues and bonds were upward, due to improvement in sentiment for securities, and also on account of soaring grain prices owing to continuation of the drought. The market continued dull, however, which some attributed to business curtailment.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz's New York office reports:—Stocks maintained a firm tone in a less listless market. Wheat: The drought continues. The public is now entering the market. There is no suggestion of relief. Crop advances are sensational. Cotton: The market was without initiative but slightly steadier on strength of grain markets. Rubber was lower on outside liquidation although primary markets held above New York parity. Silver: The market was idle owing to absence of news.

The Varsities At Cricket

innings and thirty one runs. At first sight, compared with the Cambridge record of two wins, two losses, one draw, this is not very good, but I will discuss this point more fully in my next article, on Cambridge. There is, in point of fact, little to choose between the merit of the performances, and, if anything, Oxford may be thought by some to have a slight advantage.

The first match was a draw, but as the visiting side, Gloucester, were eight-one runs behind with only one wicket to fall, it was a moral victory, especially as only two Blues were playing, Chalk and Walker. F. C. de Sarra made 176, and N. S. Mitchell, 107, while J. H. Dyeon took five for 64.

The next match, against Worcester, was drawn. Oxford made 377 and 246 for eight. D. F. Walker got 188 for Oxford, and the fast-medium bowler K. L. T. Jackson took 6 wickets for 66.

The Varsity next held York-shire to a fairly creditable draw, as, in reply to 351 and 181 for two, Oxford made 250 and 112 for two wickets. In the first innings, Chalk made 135. They then met Lancashire, and with them also, as after the County had made 410, Oxford replied with 232 and 206 for four.

In their match with the Australians they failed, as, against a total of 317, they could only muster 70 and 216. The one bright feature here was another century by de Sarra, who made 128 in the second innings.

THE VACANCIES.

It is too early to go into the whole list of candidates in great detail. I shall hope to write with more certainty in a week or two, when I have been able to see the scores of the earlier matches in detail. One can usually narrow things down a good deal when the sides go on tour after completing their fixtures at the Parks or Fenner's, as the case may be.

At present I have only seen the score of the first day of the Gloucester match. F. C. de Sarra (Ceylon and Kable) went up in October, 1931, and was given a place in the 1932 Freshers' match, but only made six. So far as I can discover he was never given another chance, probably because he is a very good lawn tennis player. I think he got his Blue at that. Anyway, he was not in the 1933 Seniors' match, but, after term, began to play for Hertfordshire in the Minor Counties Championship, and got 479 runs in five matches, with an average of 95.82, including two centuries. He also bowls a little.

N. S. Mitchell-Innes is a fresher from Seabrogh, where he captained the side in his last two years, with averages of 62 and 109 respectively. He also played for Somerset after term, and had an average of 50 for them! The list of people who have made a century in their first game for their Varsity is not a long one, I think, but these two are the latest additions.

J. H.—or possibly J. K.—Dyeon, (Charterhouse and Christchurch) is a second year man, who was tried once last year, and took two for 73, and made four. In the first match this year he took five for fifty-four. There is a vacancy for a wicket-keeper, and N. S. Knight, (Uppingham and Wadhwa) was given a chance against Gloucester. A second year man, he may well get in, as he is a useful left-hander. A. L. Warren (Bromsgrove and B.N.C.) and the Hon. R. M. Dundas (Gloucestershire and Kable) are in the running.

Other possibilities are T. M. Watson (Monkton Combe and Balliol) and K. L. T. Jackson (Rugby and Trinity). There is a vacancy for a batsman, and J. G. Halliday (City of Oxford School and Merton). Presumably he is a bowler.

(To Be Continued.)

RIFLE SHOOTING

Local Club Holds Competition

The May rifle shooting competition of the Hongkong Rifle Club was held at Kowloon Tong range over the week-end.

On Saturday there were seven members shooting, and conditions were good at 200 yards and 500 yards but a strong wind at 300 yards made shooting at that range somewhat erratic.

On Sunday J. L. Tetley was the only member shooting, conditions were on the whole, good. H. W. G. Todd again won the spoon in "D" Class. There was no competition in "B", only three firing.

The detailed scores follow:

	200 yds.	300 yds.	500 yds.	Total
J. L. Tetley	31	30	24	85

AROUND ITALY

START OF HAZARDOUS 4,000 MILE MOTOR RACE

Palermo, May 28. A chapter of accidents has already marked the hazardous "around Italy" motor race, which started from Rome yesterday.

Two Italian drivers, driving Fiat cars, were injured, and died later. Two British drivers, John Walter and Harrop, in an M.G. car, were also injured.

Four British cars are entered. There are 220 cars entered, with drivers of eight nationalities. The course is 4,000 miles, and the race will not finish until next Sunday. The prize is the Littora Gold Cup, which will be presented to the winner by Signor Mussolini.—Reuter.

FURTHER REDUCTION IN UNEMPLOYMENT

HALF A MILLION IN A YEAR

(By Telegraph Copyright, Telegraph News Agency, London, 1934. Received May 29, 1934 a.m.)

London, May 28. Most of Britain's principal industries shared in the improvement reflected in the past month's fall in unemployment by fifty-eight thousand.

The total of unemployed is now just over two millions, which is nearly half a million less than at this time last year.—Reuter Special.

A further decline in the number of persons unemployed and an increase in the number in employment are disclosed in the latest Ministry of Labour return.

It states that at May 14, there were approximately 10,187,000 insured persons aged 16-64 in employment in Great Britain. This was 47,000 more than at the 23rd April.

The improvement during the month affected most of the principal industries except the coal mining industry, where the decline was due mainly to temporary stoppages at a number of collieries in Yorkshire and the wool textile industry.

The numbers of unemployed persons on the registers of the Employment Exchange in Britain on May 14, were 1,658,677 wholly unemployed, 341,028 temporarily stopped and 90,676 normally in casual employment, making a total of 2,090,381. This was 57,814 less than the number on the registers at April 23, 1934, and 492,498 less than the year before.

The latest total comprised 1,706,797 men, 62,560 boys, 289,664 women and 41,360 girls.—British Wireless.

WORLD TRADE STATISTICS

League Of Nations' Figures

Geneva, May 29.

Statistics available to the League of Nations all point to a steady rise in world trade, marking the progressive movement towards recovery.

Further improvement in the world's commercial statistics published by the Financial Section of the League include an increase of twenty per cent. in coal production during January, as compared with the corresponding month of last year.

The increased production of other commodities as compared with January last year are in some cases even more remarkable, as

SUPERVISION ORDER

NULLIFIED BY MAN GOING TO COUNTRY

Remarking that the fact that the accused had been allowed to return to the country nullified his order of police supervision, as he could not be expected to report when he was in the country, Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, dismissed a charge of failing to report to the police while under supervision against Li Yau-chuen, alias Li Chi-shok, alias Chau Wing, unemployed.

Defendant was remanded for 48 hours on another charge of being found in a store room of the Hongkong University.

Mr. S. V. Boxer, acting Registrar of the University, said when he unlocked the door to the room about 10.45 a.m. yesterday defendant walked out. He had never seen defendant before. Defendant had no right to be there. Sub-Inspector Thorpe said that on August 6, 1932, defendant was sentenced by Mr. Schofield to six months' hard labour and two years' police supervision as from February 5, 1933. Defendant only reported once, and that was on February 4, 1933. He was arrested again on February 14, 1933, and sentenced to twenty-four hours on a charge of larceny, and was allowed to return to the country with his father. He should have reported to the police when he returned from the country.

Mr. Hamilton dismissed the summons of failing to report, and remanded accused on the other summons, as defendant said that he had gone to the University to look for a friend called Chan Wing.

AN ACCOUNTANT "WANTED"

BIG SUM ALLEGED EMBEZZLED

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Pun Kin-yue, employed as an accountant at the Sheung Tung firm at 21 Bonham Strand West, on a charge of embezzling nearly $20,000.

Pun was missing from his post after the week-end, and an investigation of the books is said to have revealed the amount named as a deficit on March 6. Tall and of medium height, speaking Japanese fluently, Pun is usually dressed in a silk gown, and a description containing these particulars has been circulated.

The following percentages of increase for January, 1934, will show:

Petrol, 12 per cent.

Pig Iron, 51 per cent.

Steel, 54 per cent.

Zinc, 37 per cent.

Industrial activity during the first three months of 1934, compared with 1933, increased forty per cent. in Canada, thirty in the United States, twenty-five in Germany and Poland, eighteen in Sweden, eleven in Japan, six in Norway and three in France.

Unemployment is decreasing in all the principal industrial countries with the exception of France.

Woman's Place In Russia

EQUALITY OF HARD WORK?

Moscow, May 28.

The Commissar of Heavy Industry, M. Gregory Ordzhonikidze has issued a decree designed to increase the number of Soviet women in mines and behind the giant machines of factories.

Rapid advancement of qualified women to positions of responsibility and to higher wages is stressed in the decree. To prepare women for these better positions, M. Ordzhonikidze requires that a larger number of women should be taken into technical schools.

The decree emphasizes the Soviet Government's determination to stamp out, so far as possible, any segregation of political and economic activities for the male sex.

Men and women are placed on exactly the same plane, although, at the same time, no Government in the world is so solicitous for the welfare of women, as women, as is the regime in Moscow.

Many privileges ease the life of expectant mothers. If she is employed in heavy industry, she is permitted to go on leave for four months with full pay—two months before and two months after the birth of her child. Mothers in lighter industries receive a somewhat shorter leave, varying from two to three months.—United Press.

CHINA PROGRESS EXPEDITED.

BRITAIN CAN HELP, SAYS DR. WU

London, May 28.

Dr. Wu Lien-teh, China's medical representative at Geneva, interviewed here to-day on his experiences with the League of Nations experts, told how he had addressed the Health Sub-Committee of the League for 90 minutes on the recent health work in China. His address, he said, was received with surprise and admiration.

He specially emphasized the National Economic Council's value in attracting to the public service expert Chinese, who were formerly unavailable for many necessary posts, except when they had political pull.

He dwelt on the importance of placing Chinese in western organizations for practical experience and thought that the British Boxer indemnity money might be more widely used in this direction.

Dr. Rajchmann's report had everywhere created the most favourable impressions, he went on. He believed that Dr. Rajchmann would return to China but he would first have to be confirmed as head of the League Health Section.

Dr. Wu has been staying at his old College, Emmanuel, and says Professor Giles is most vigorous despite his 87 years. Dr. Wu hopes to acquire the famous Chinese libraries of Professor Giles for the China Medical Association when he returns to China on June 8. Meanwhile, he will prepare for the meeting at Nanking in October of the Far Eastern Association of Tropical Medicine which will be held for the first time in China.

"We have nothing now to be ashamed of," said Dr. Wu. "We can show everything."—Our Own Correspondent.

TOLEDO QUIET.

NO DISTURBANCES ON SUNDAY

New York, May 28.

Although high tension continues at Toledo, Ohio, scene of several grave encounters last week, Sunday passed without disorder.

The mob of strikers that has been menacing the Autolite Works for four days refrained from further attacks.

The troops, however, did not relax precautions, going through their routine duties and maintaining their defence lines.

Reports from San Francisco are not encouraging. The longshoremen strikers and the employers were in conference together for some hours yesterday, but reliable reports state that no progress has been made.

There were several minor clashes between strikers and strike-breakers in the course of the day.—United Press.

NAVAL TALK POLICY

POLITICAL ISSUES TABOO

Tokyo, May 29.

Japan is giving very serious consideration to the policy to be pursued in the preliminary naval discussions, to which Britain has extended an invitation.

Draft instructions to Mr. Matsudaira, the Japanese Ambassador in London, who will be entrusted with the task, will be submitted to the Cabinet by Mr. Hirota, the Foreign Minister, to-morrow, for their approval.

It is understood that the Japanese Government accepts with pleasure the prospect of bilateral talks, and is not opposed to general meetings of all the parties to the naval treaty whenever it is considered desirable.

RESTRICTED ISSUE.

It is also believed that the Japanese Government will stress the Japanese belief that there is no need for the naval conference to go into any further discussion of the Nine-Power Treaty, Far Eastern problems or political questions, which have already been thoroughly discussed by the League.

The Japanese Government therefore understands that the next naval conference will only discuss defence and naval strengths.

It has been indicated in Washington that in Anglo-American circles, Pacific political issues are inextricably interwoven with the naval problem.—Reuter.

INSTRUCTIONS APPROVED.

Later. The Cabinet has approved the draft of the instructions to Mr. Matsudaira, agreeing to preliminary bilateral talks in London. It is understood that the instructions, which will be despatched this afternoon, emphasize the desire of Japan to limit the preliminary discussions to naval matters and not to touch upon political issues.—Reuter.

FRIEND OF HUMANITY

HIGH TRIBUTES TO MR. MORRIS

The growth of the St. John Ambulance Brigade in Hongkong and Kowloon and the expansion of its work to the villages of the New Territories, was referred to by speakers at a farewell tea party, given at the Gloucester Building yesterday afternoon, in honour of the Commissioner, Mr. Alfred Morris, who is retiring from the Government Service and is proceeding on holiday on June 1. He is returning to Hongkong, however, to continue his work with the Brigade.

The Hon. Sir William Shenton, who presided, and three Corps officers, spoke in eulogistic terms of the work done by their departing Commissioner, who, as one of the speakers said, "was respected and admired most as a friend of suffering humanity."

Nearly 300 sat down to tea and among those present were Sir William Shenton, Major Anderson, R.A.M.C., Mrs. R. Langley (Corps Secretary), Miss Alice Kwok, Messrs. Ho Kom-tung, Tang Shiu-kin, Wong Kwong-tin, Chai Man-chi, A. el Arculli, J. Ralston, E. M. Raymond, Ng Wah Kwok, the Hon. Mr. Fung Ki-cheuk, Mok Kon-nang, Chak Tai-kyong, Dr. H. el Arculli, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Dr. T. P. Woo, Dr. E. Q. Lim, Dr. D. K. Samy, Dr. Ma Luk, Dr. Arthur Woo, Dr. Y. C. Teh, Dr. Ip Kam-wa, Dr. F. I. BRIDGE RESULTS.

CONTRACT AND CONSOLATION TOURNAMENTS

The second session of the semi-finals of the Contract Bridge Tournament was played at the Sports Club last night when Messrs. Dannenberg and Oxorio beat Messames Bradley and Younghusband.

The finals will be played to-night and on Thursday, May 31, commencing at 8.30 p.m. Visitors will be allowed to watch the play.

Following are the results of the Third Round of the Consolation Tournament also played last night: Messrs. M. H. Lo and H. Lo beat the Hon. Mr. R. E. Lindell and Mr. Frank.

Messrs. Silva and Barros beat Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Johnson; Messrs. Abceaser and Cheung U-pui beat Messrs. Barry and Paterson; and June 4 being a holiday, the finals of this tournament will be played on Tuesday, June 5.

RUSSIAN SENT TO PRISON

TROUBLE-FINDER EVERYWHERE

"I find that he is a very undesirable person and is not wanted in Hongkong," said Det-Sergt. Kennedy, referring to Joseph Slwak, a Russian who was again before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning on a charge of stealing $80.

It was alleged that defendant snatched the money from the hands of Chan See, the mistress of a bicycle shop, on Sunday afternoon. Accused was remanded yesterday to allow the Police to find out more about defendant.

His Worship The Police find that you and your family have been up and down the China Coast since 1924 for about ten years.

Defendant: We have been in China for 14 years.

His Worship: And you seem to have created trouble everywhere you have been.

Defendant: I have never been in trouble in China. I have always done honest work.

Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was passed.

SCIENTIFIC STUDY OF MAN

London, May 28.

Scientists from all parts of the world visit London at the end of July for the International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences.

This will be the first meeting of the Congress, which was formed last year to promote study in all departments of research which contribute to scientific study of man in their application to races, peoples and modes of life. Subsequent sessions of the Congress are to be held at intervals of four years.

The Duke of York will welcome members of the Congress to London at the inaugural session on July 30.—British Wireless.

DISASTER FUND

TYPICAL CASES RELIEVED

APPEAL CLOSING ON THURSDAY

After to-day, only two days remain in which to contribute to the Telegraph Fund for the relief of sufferers in the gasworks disaster.

Particulars of further cases dealt with at the St. John Ambulance Brigade distributing centre show that the money subscribed is being most usefully employed.

One particularly pathetic case was that of two widows, aged 58 and 60 respectively, who were only able to rent a bed-space which they shared in a Clarence Terrace cubicle. They lost all their clothing, while one was badly burnt about the ears and legs.

Another case relieved was that of a woman over 60 years of age, who, although obviously sick, earned a living as best she could by hawking peanuts. She lost all her possessions in the fire.

Relief was also granted to three sisters, one of whom was employed as an amah and the other two in embroidery work. They lost all their possessions, as also did a street coolie and his wife, with a family of five children.

These typical instances show the necessity of help being afforded to poor people who were rendered homeless and who lost practically all their belongings in the disaster.

"APPROPRIATE" LICENCE

DIFFICULT TO CONSTRUCT TERM

The summons against Yau Wai, a public car driver, for having driven a private car without an appropriate licence in the Central District, was withdrawn before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning.

It will be recalled that Mr. F. H. Losely, who appeared for defendant at the first hearing of the summons, contended the summons on the meaning of the word "appropriate."

Mr. Hamilton, dismissing the summons, remarked that unless every particular car had a particular type of licence, it would be very difficult to construe the meaning of the word "appropriate."

R. Howe, of Messrs. Dodwell & Co., was cautioned on a summons for having failed to report a collision in Queen's Road East.

Inspector Nicol said defendant's car skidded over to the off side of the road near the main gate of the Naval Depot and damaged another car.

H. H. Mueller, driver of private car No. 2106, was fined $5 on a similar summons.

Inspector Nicol said defendant knocked against a private car in Connaught Road Central.

Mueller stated that he had reported the collision to the A. A.

Mr. Hamilton remarked that the A. A. was not officially recognised, and he should have reported the accident to the police.

Choa Wing-hing, driver of private car No. 1651, was fined $10 on a summons for dangerous driving.

Inspector Nicol said defendant was driving at 30 miles an hour from Arsenal Street to Wanchai Market.

Choa said he would not dispute the speed, but the road was clear of traffic, and there was no danger at all.

ALHAMBRA TO-MORROW

Just twenty-four hours! But how fraught with the thrills of romance, the blows of Fate! A lovable father suddenly finds himself in a whirlpool of disaster, while his wife and children are busy with their own affairs! You'll be deeply moved by this heart-warming, utterly human SLICE OF LIFE!

More powerful than "Rasputin" — more thrilling than "Stranger's Return!"

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

By W. E. McKenney

Contract Problem

Never take anything for granted at bridge. Don't assume, just because you hold three honours in a suit, that the outstanding honours should be split.

Always try to provide for the outstanding cards being in the worst possible position for you and then see if you can find a way to make your contract.

Don't resort to a finesse unless you know there is no other course in the hand and that it is the safest play.

To-day's hand, while not difficult, has several stumbling blocks for the careless declarer to trip over.

North's jump to three hearts is just a little optimistic. While he does have two aces and four trumps to the queen, he has a four-three-three-three distribution and nothing to establish—no ruffing values. With this type of hand I believe it safer just to bid two hearts rather than give your partner a game force.

In to-day's hand we find South, after the jump to three hearts, going to four hearts on a four-card suit. The only reason he does that is because of his 100 honours.

A four-card suit headed by A K J 10, with support from partner, is as good as a five-card suit.

The Play

West's opening lead is the king of diamonds. Before playing to the first trick, declarer must stop to count. He has two losing di-

monds and, if the king and queen of spades are in the West and, he may lose two spade tricks.

He can see that it will be possible to pick up the outstanding trump, strip the hand of clubs, and if he can throw West in the lead, he can prevent the loss of the two spade tricks. His best play, then, is to refuse to win the first diamond trick.

West should continue with the jack of diamonds—not the queen. When holding the K-Q-J, lead the king first and then the jack. This trick is won by the declarer with the ace. Three rounds of hearts are taken, which pick up the outstanding trump, and then three rounds of clubs.

The declarer now can lead the ten of diamonds, as he knows West will be forced to win with the queen. West is helpless.

If he leads a diamond, the declarer can discard a spade from one hand and ruff in the other, while if he leads the king of spades, the declarer will win with the ace and lose only one spade trick.

If the declarer had taken the spade finesse earlier in the hand, before stripping the hand of clubs,

Fit One Day—Off Colour: The Next!

So it goes on, until the number of days when you are really 'fit' is much in the minority, definite signs that your blood stream has become impoverished, and with it your resistance to disease is weakening.

If you are wise you will take steps without further delay to remedy this state of affairs before illness supervenes, for this is inevitable if the blood remains weak, thin and impure for any great length of time.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS, the prescription of a British physician, an M.D. of Edinburgh University, have been the world's most famous blood and nerve tonic for fifty years.

Throughout that long period they have earned many encomiums from the medical profession, and only recently their merits were again put to severe test by a physician, with as his reports, almost amazingly satisfactory results. Eleven anemic, run-down patients were placed upon a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by this doctor, samples of their blood being examined before they began taking the pills and again one month later. In ten cases a definite increase in haemoglobin was registered, haemoglobin being the substance which carries oxygen from the lungs and nutrient from the food digested in the intestines to the innumerable cells of all the organs and tissues of the body, and the patients all reported that they definitely felt better and stronger.

The one case showing no improvement was proved to be due to two defective teeth which were poisoning the blood stream, and after these had been removed the improvement in haemoglobin was excellent, 27% in two months.

If you are run-down, depressed, nervous, lack appetite, strength and vigour, begin a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to-day, you know that you are taking a well tried remedy which has proved of great benefit to similar sufferers over a period of fifty years. Equally good for men and women, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a safe prescription for children who are run-down, pale, weak and anemic, and they are a splendid builder after colds, measles, whooping cough. You can obtain Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from chemists everywhere.

Today's Contract Problem

How should the bidding proceed, when using the Sims three-bid South is dealer and North and South are vulnerable. With the king of diamonds opening, can declarer still make six spades?

GENEVA DECISION

GENERAL DEBATE ON ARMAMENTS

CONFERENCE MUST GO ON

(Special to "Telegraph")

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message, Ordinance, 1934. Received, May 29, 4.10 a.m.)

Geneva, May 28.
The Bureau of the Disarmament Conference met to-day under the chairmanship of Mr. Arthur Henderson, to discuss the procedure to be followed at to-morrow's meeting of the General Commission.

The business of the Bureau was completed within half an hour.

It was decided that the General Commission should meet to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon to decide the fate of the Disarmament Conference.

The meeting will be thrown open to a general debate on the problems to be met.

"MUST GO ON"

Mr. Henderson, at to-day's meeting of the Bureau, read a short statement summarising the recent exchange of Notes between the Powers principally concerned, after which M. Barthou, the French Foreign Minister, supported the chairman's proposals to open a general debate.

"The conference must continue," declared M. Barthou, in the course of his speech.—United Press.

GRAVE SITUATION.

London, May 28.
The future of the Disarmament Conference will be determined at

PUBLIC SCHOOL EXPEDITION INTO INTERIOR OF NEWFOUNDLAND

London, May 28.

The third expedition into little known parts of the world organised by the Public Schools Exploring Society, of which the Prince of Wales is Patron, will sail for Newfoundland under the leadership of Surgeon Commander Murray Leslie on August 3. For over four weeks they will journey in uncharted country.

One party will make a detailed theodolite survey of about 25 by 30 miles of country, while another will march straight through the interior of the island, making a route survey by primitive compass and sextant. Scientific observations will include meteorology, geology and notes on flora and fauna.

Some 50 boys representing most of the leading public schools will take part in the expedition.—British Wireless.

The meeting of the General Commission of the Conference which opens at Geneva to-morrow. At to-day's meeting of the Bureau, Mr. Arthur Henderson expressed the hope that the Bureau would unanimously recommend the General Commission that the gravity of the situation commands more than ever an unflinching determination to pursue efforts towards securing a convention in accordance with the mandate given to the Conference.

Monsieur Barthou, the only other speaker, urged that however difficult the developments had been, the Conference should not consider its work finished. The speeches at to-morrow's meeting will be broadcast.—British Wireless.

GERMAN TRADE THREAT

SYNTHETIC RAW MATERIALS

Berlin, May 29.

The threat that Germany may be compelled to make a complete reversal of her industrial economy was made last night by Dr. Schmitt, the Minister of National Economy.

Addressing a meeting at Frankfurt-on-Main, Dr. Schmitt complained that the nations of the world were excluding German exports, with the consequent result that Germany could buy less and less of raw materials.

This, he said, was the reason why the debts service could not be continued.

If this situation was not soon changed, Germany would be forced to rely upon her chemists and engineers to produce substantial raw materials from her own resources.

This would not be a temporary palliative but a permanent transformation.

If Germany were compelled to the stop, it would react with tremendous force on world markets.—Reuter.

Yuen Yuk, a shop fold, was sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. Macfarlane, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for possession of 313 counterfeit ten-cent pieces at the Tung On Wharf. He had just disembarked from the steamer Sai On. Defendant said he had been given $1 and asked to carry the coins by a friend he could not trace.

STEAMER AUCTIONED.

OLD COASTER CHANGES HANDS FOR $30,000

After many years on the China Coast the steamship To Chu Kung, experienced another change of ownership yesterday, when, at a public auction held by Messrs. Lamport, she was sold to Mr. Wong Chiu for the sum of $30,000. Mr. Wong Chiu was the only bidder and he offered $5,000 over the upset price.

Eighteen months ago the steamer was sold to the previous owner for $20,000, since when she had been affected by adverse trading conditions resulting in her being laid up at Hongkong and in a mortgage being effected on the vessel and her forced sale yesterday by the mortgagee. The steamer has had a varied career, being at one time known as the Castor, then the Nordmark, and next as the Yuan Jong.

General particulars of the vessel are as follows: length over 240 feet; breadth over 34 feet; with a moulded depth of 20.8 feet. She has a mean loaded draft of 20 feet 4 inches; her gross tonnage being 1,488 and her net 906. She was built in 1895 by Messrs. Rijkse and Co., Rotterdam and within recent times had been operating on the China Coast under the Chinese flag.
